Washington.—The Coolidge administration will put the shoulder to the wheel and insist on a public buildings bill in the next session of congress.Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said Thursday that not only was the construction in federal buildings near the limit of endurance but he would no longer feel responsible for the "condition of government records.""It is unthinkable," he said, "that we can have no archives building. We can economize on rentals sufficiently to erect a storage, building. Think what would happen if the income tax returns were destroyed. It would cost the government many millions of dollars to replace those records. We can tolerate the situation no longer."The Utah senator has just conferred with President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon on the entire building program. The senator is authority for the statement that the proposal will not be allowed to die in the next congress as was the case in the short session last year. He has won an appropriation of five million dollars annually for a period of 10 years for the District of Columbia and a sum of at least $100,000,000 for buildings outside of Washington.Originally it was suggested that a bond issue be floated but this now has been abandoned definitely and the plan is to make small appropriations annually but all as a part of a definite building program. President Coolidge thought the plan for a time of the bond issue plan but he was convinced that it would be a disadvantage to the government. He is anxious, however, that congress act at the coming session and to that end he has asked his advisers to begin work on tentative plans that can be developed from year to year on a consistent basis.While all the leases which the government has on rented property cannot be terminated at once, some compact can be effected over a 10 year period and thereafter. Nearly all the departments have outgrown their pre-war homes and there are many temporary buildings now being used which are not regarded as safe or comfortable. Outside of Washington the situation is described as even worse. Postoffices need enlargement.
The collectors of income taxes need more space. The work of the federal courts has expanded and altogether there has been almost every where a growth in population which has increased the volume of transactions by the federal government. There hasn't been a public buildings bill of any consequence since 1913. The European war interfered with it because of the high cost of building materials and since the war the economy wave has been so powerful that it has rolled over all projects.The real difficulty which the administration must iron out is how to select the cities which need immediate attention and postpone action on the others without arousing the individual

$250,000 IN JEWELRYChicago.—(P)—Three armed and masked men in a daring daylight raid Thursday entered the offices of Lazarus and Sons, Mfg. Jewelers, forced Sig Lazarus, the president to open five safes while customers and employees look on, and escaped in an automobile with a fourth confederate, taking jewelry valued at $250,000.
The robbers slugged the elevator man as they entered the building on the outskirts of the business district. One of them operated it to the seventh floor where the offices are located.
They twisted Lazarus' arm and threatened to shoot him when he demurred at the command to open the safes. Two leisurely sorted out diamonds and valuable jewelry and discarded the rest while the third man guarded the prisoners. More than 30 employees in an adjoining room were not disturbed.Carrying a suit case filled with the loot the trio descended upon the elevator, leaped into the waiting automobile and vanished. Police could find no trace of the route taken.

"WASTE" POLICY
OF BADGER STATEPresent Resolutions to Convention Condemning Conservatism ProgramStevens Point.—(P)—Condemnation of the conservation policy of the state of Wisconsin in following "destruction of natural resources" and the Chicago sanitary district for alleged water steals which are lowering the lake Michigan levels are contained in resolutions presented to the Wisconsin Department American Legion in convention here Friday.The resolutions are declared to be the first step in a legion program looking toward public welfare. In the resolutions attention is called to the situation presented by the Hor-con Marsh which the farmers of the resolution contend is nothing more than a tangled mass of thistles and cattails as the result of the draining and its passing at a natural fish and game refuge. The state is urged to establish some sort of conservation program and to stand on it. Another resolution calls for the passage of legislation demanding the reforestation of idle lands in northern Wisconsin and the restoration of lakes and streams to their natural state.
Touching upon their own condition, the legionaries are considering a resolution which calls upon the state to make certain no more money belonging to the original bonus fund be appropriated for any other purpose than for rehabilitation of Wisconsin former soldiers. The money, the resolution declares, was raised by direct tax. About a million dollars remains of the original fund and the legion the resolution says wishes this money to be used for that fund only.Selection of the next convention city was being discussed Friday morning with Wausau holding the recommendation by the committee.
Wausau held six votes and La Crosse four. Final action will be taken later in the day.Baraboo won the legion pistol shoot, competing against Neenah and Stevens Point posts.A plank for peace is the strongest tenet in the creed of the American legion, national commander James A.
Drain, Indianapolis, declared in an address delivered before the annual convention Thursday.Adjutant General Ralph M. Immel of Wisconsin declared the state department of the American legion should take a keener interest in the affairs and achievements of the state national guard.OSHKOSH WILL BE

Authority in All Districts
After Sept. 1Washington, D. C.—(P)—The new prohibition army will be captained in a large measure by the same men who now command Uncle Sam's enforcement squadrons.Out of 24 new district administrators named Friday by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, all but six already are in the service.Although he had announced a campaign to induce practical business executive to lend new blood to the organization, General Andrews said Friday that after investigation he had decided that there are many now in the enforcement machine who should be given a chance to make good under the new plan that is to become operative Sept. 1.Announcing his selections, the prohibition chief said his new force would make war on bootleg wholesales and would make the question of local enforcement a secondary consideration."The market is our most difficult problem," he said, "because of its indifference to consequences, ignorance and colossal gullibility. The market will pay any price and swallow any bootlegger's fairy tale as to quality.
One by one, they will learn that their imported whiskies, etc., are being made in Canada from industrial alcohol and thus will refrain from buying.""The bootleg industry, in one form or another, extends over the whole

To Murder King Of SpainNew York.—(P)—The censorship in Spain, which has been imposed upon feature stories, local, foreign and national news and headlines, apparently is preventing for the moment the truth of falsity of a circumstantial story related by a traveler arriving at Hendaye, France, from Santander, Spain, of an attempt to assassinate King Alfonso at Santander last Saturday night.Recently there have been other reports of plots against the life of the Spanish monarch and an official statement issued in Madrid on June 10 admitted one plot. This was the finding of a bomb on the railway track between Saragossa and Barcelona over which Alfonso was to pass.The explosive was discovered before the king's train arrived.The story of the traveler at Hen-daye was to the effect that a tall, well dressed man put his hand in his pocket as the royal automobile in which the king was approaching nearly him. A suspicious movement in changing his dark eyeglasses to clear glasses was noticed by the secret service men, who took him into custody.It was asserted in Barcelona, according to the traveler, that the king had been wounded in the shoulder, that the Duke of Marmande had been killed and the king's chauffeur wounded. He added that there was no attempt to hide the fact that there was a plot against Alfonso in several cities.NATURAL LAWS SHOULD NOT JUDGE MIRACLESWinona Lake, Ind.—(P)—Miracles and Mysteries of the Bible should not be considered from the viewpoint of natural laws, declared Dr. Charles R.
Erdman, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly at the Winona Bible conference."Even in view of the facts and laws established by modern science, no intelligent consultation need doubt the truth of divine creation, of the miracles of sacred history, or the inspiration of the bible.""In view of the unsolved mysteries which they face, both the scientist and theologian should show humility and charity.""New testament miracles should never be considered from the viewpoint of the natural law alone, but always in their relation to the divine person and purpose of Christ. Those with which the scientist is competent to deal.""Many facts of science now are established virtually beyond a doubt.
Such too, can be said of certain essential truths of Christianity."CHARGE INDIAN WOMAN WITH "WITCH" MURDERPrince Rupert, B. C.—(P)—Edie
Loot, an Indian woman, went on trial
Friday charged with participating in a "withcraft murder." "Big" Alex, a Laird River Indian was charged with manslaughter Thursday in connection with the case.The victim was Wastela Moccasin, also known as Ato, an Indian youth who was suspected of using an "evil eye" against other members of the tribe.In March, 1923, the youth was taken out on the ice, bound and left to freeze."Big" Alex, three brothers named Loot, and Edie Loot were captured by a Royal Canadian Mounted police party from Vancouver late in 1924 after an arduous trip during which the troopers traveled 2420 miles.
Charges against the three Loot brothers were withdrawn.The Indians are nomads of a primitive tribe.WILL PROBE REMOVAL

Milk Producers federation, said Friday a congressional investigation will for the removal from office of Dr.

of Agriculture Economics.
Dr. Taylor resigned at the request

BEST SUITED FOR FAR NORTH TRIPSMacMillan Says Lighter Than Air Machines Overcome Ice Hazards BetterWashington, D. C.—(P)—Lighter than air machines like the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles are in the opinion of Commander Donald B.
MacMillan, the type of craft best suited to overcome the ice hazards that the far north present to the explorer.The continually drifting ice floes, he has traduced, the National Geographic society make uncertain the landing of heavier than air machines, as one day a flood may be open, only to be ice bound the next. Under such conditions, he said, a cache established by an airplane "is not a help, but a menace," for if depended upon and a plane arrives out of fuel, destruction is certain.It was learned that about the time officers of the society, which is sponsor for the expedition, decided to abandon the polar flight, Lieut. Commander Byrd, in charge of the navy planes with the party, was still hoping for one more chance to try his planes against the northern ice barriers.The navy flier was not wholly convinced of the futility of further efforts to penetrate the far north, and was anxious to make one more flight.
With the polar flight called off the expedition is expected to carry out its further explorations promptly, as it now has two airplanes in serviceable condition, repairs to one which was partly damaged by fire Tuesday having been completed.Although a dispatch from Mac-Millan to Daniel W. Hoag, managing editor of the Portland, Maine, Evening Express, said he would return home next month, the belief was expressed by officials here that it would probably be October before he arrived at Wiscasset, Maine.U. W. WILL BUILD THIRD WING TO BASCOM HALLMadison.—(P)—Construction of a third wing to Bascom hall since 1857 the main building of the University of Wisconsin, will begin immediately. It was announced Friday. The wing will relieve the congestion in the building, and the north wing in 1906. The addition to be built this fall will be behind the south wing and will cost $470,000.
An east wing will be placed opposite the west wing later.The old hall has been so crowded in recent years that one-way doorways and stairways have been designated for "up" and "down" and "in" and "out" student traffic. A watchman enforces the regulations during the periods between classes, directing the traffic of more than 2,000 students that are in the building most of the day.WIFE SUES HUSBAND'S her husband in too many golf and card parties, charges Mrs. Helen Louise Dandeno, who has sued the employers, Henry A. Tortenson, for $100,000 damages, charging "alienation" from nervous diseases as well as the noted Italian medium, Signora Mag-gi. The patient was shut up in a perfectly insulated cabinet. The sounds he heard through the receiver ranged from signals akin to ordinary wireless signals to whistling to soft violin or cello notes.TWO ARRESTED FOR DRIVING

WHILE DRUNKA small epidemic of drunken driving appears to have broken out in Appleton. Police Thursday arrested two automobilists for this offense, three of such arrests were made inside of three days.Those apprehended Thursday were
A. T. Hattendorf, 74 Clark-st., Battle Creek, Mich., who was overtaken by Detective Sergeant John Duvall and Officers Carl Radtke and John Kobussen on S. Oneida-st. about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and Henry McGrath, arrested at his home, 123 N. Morrison-st.
by Detective Duvall and Officer Albert Delgen at about 8:10 in the evening.The latter arrest was made after McGrath had caused his car to collide with one owned by Earl Miller which was parked in front of his home at 903 E. Alton-st. The left rear spring shackle was broken on the Miller car, while a tire rod was broken on the McGrath car.McGrath pleaded not guilty to the charge in municipal court Friday morning, whereupon Judge Theodore Berg set his case for Saturday morning. Hattendorf pleaded guilty, and the judge gave him the choice of a fine of $50 plus costs of $4.20, or spend 30 days in the county jail. The driver chose the former penalty.A third case of driving while intoxicated, preferred against Gustave Her-becker, is still pending. It will be heard

TWO TRAINMEN VICTIMS

Relief Trains Ordered to Scene by Dispatcher 15 Minutes Before CrashSalida, Colo.—(P)—Two trainmen are dead, 15 passengers are seriously injured, 10 being in the hospital here and 75 others are nursing cuts and bruises Friday as the result of a head on collision between two tourist-laden Denver and Rio Grande western trains near the little mountain station at Granite, Colo. late Thursday.The fact that the trains were comprised of all steel coaches prevented a much greater toll of casualties. Responsibility for the wreck was laid by railroad officials to failure of one train to receive orders to stop at Granite. The trains "Panoramic Specials" numbers 7 and 8, which run on a daylight schedule between Denver and Salt Lake City for the benefit of tourists, met on a "reverse curve" after number 8, the east bound train, had failed to receive the stop order, officials declared.By a queer twist of events preceding the crash, Samuel L. Smith, Sa-lida, dispatcher, received a report that number 8 "had" passed Granite without receiving the stop order and realized that nothing could prevent a wreck. He notified Red Cross hospitals here and was ordering relief trains at Leadville, Buena Vista and Salida to the scene fifteen minutes before the crash occurred.Fireman J. W. Taughtenbaugh of train No. 7, and C. E. Fehlan, engine man on train No. 8, were killed.
Taughtenbaugh's body was still buried under the wreckage of his locomotive early Friday.The engine of the eastbound train climbed atop of the other locomotive as they met and four coaches of the eastbound carrier left the track.DISCOVER MANY CLEWS IN MURDER MYSTERYDes Moines, Ia.—(P)—The finding of additional clues—a jagged edged hammer, two bloodstained automobile cushions, a man's long woolen glove stained with blood, a woman's hankerchief and a hat with the initials J. B. E. perforated on the band and the remnants of a notebook and letter torn to bits—were the important developments of Thursday in connection with the finding of the charred body of a woman in a burned straw pile near Carlisle.The finding of the address of Mrs.
T. W. Baker was at first believed to indicate she might have been the slain woman. This theory was later shattered when the woman was reported found in Minneapolis where she said she could not explain the finding of her address near the scene of the murder.The hammer, believed by police to have been the weapon that killed the unknown girl, is one such as used for riveting purposes with one side nicked in a way corresponding to the marks found on the victims skull.RACINE FANNING MILL

IN DOUGLAS COUNTY
FROM LACK OF RAINSuperior.—(P)—With only .52 of an inch of rain so far this month, as against the 3 and 1/2 inches usually received recorded at the head of the lakes in August, the hazard from forest fires in Douglas-co is daily increasing. The average August rain of three and one half inches is described as sufficient to fortify the woods against the fall drought and unless more rain falls considerable trouble from forest fires in the fall is anticipated. Already several incipient brush fires have been reported.Rich

ORDER PROPERTY OWNERS TO TRIM STRAGGLY TREES

Overhanging Limbs Must Be Cut Before Sept. 1. Public Works Board Warns

Disreputable condition of a number of shade trees on street terraces of city property has induced the board of public works to publish a notice in this newspaper that all property owners have their trees trimmed at once. In order to facilitate and expedite the work, the board of public works has offered the use of the street department trucks in carrying away all limbs cut off trees and shrubs if these are placed at the edge of the terraces, just as is done during clean-up week each spring.

Warning also is published that all such trees and shrubs interfering with vehicular or pedestrian traffic must be trimmed before Sept. 1, otherwise the city will do the work itself and charge the cost against the abutting properties, just as it does in the case of snow removal. The streets and terraces together with the trees and shrubbery on terraces are regarded as city property, but residents are obliged to keep the grass and shrubbery in trim, it was announced at the city hall.

ADMITS KILLING

Everett Adams, 17, of Wilmington, O., has confessed that he killed A. R. Clawson, Lodi, N. Y., in a robbery near Sedalia, Mo., after the latter has given him a lift in his automobile. He was captured at Garden City, Kas., and returned to Sedalia.

TREASURY ENRICHED BY THREE SPEEDER FINES

Fines totaling $39.60 were paid into the municipal court treasury Thursday afternoon and Friday when three speeders arrested by county motor cops on Wednesday appeared before Judge Theodore Berg. G. A. Ostermeier, New London, paid a fine of $1 and costs totaling $13.20 Thursday afternoon, and C. Brenner, Green Bay, and James Linders, route 1, Appleton, paid the same amounts Friday morning.

HEAR TESTIMONY IN PHONE CASE

Farmer Wants to Know Why He Can't Get Telephone Service

A hearing on the reasons for the refusal of the Twelve Corners and Mackville Telephone Co. to extend its service to A. H. Yahr, took place at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the courthouse before a representative of the railroad commission of Wisconsin. Mr. Yahr presented his case, and Hietman Winters, route 4, Appleton, president of the company and several other officers represented their firm in the controversy. No decision was made at the meeting, but the parties in the case will be notified of the commission's decision later.

Representatives of the phone company stated that it is a stockholding proposition and that it is not run as a profit-making public utility. All of its phone users are stockholders in the group, with 255 persons being interested. Anyone purchasing stock is entitled to service so that the proposition is thrown open to anyone who will become a stockholder. Mr. Yahr after first desiring to join the company, later refused to buy stock, and because of the nature of the concern he could not be granted service, according to the argument of the company's representatives. Mr. Yahr, however, stated that he believed that anyone was entitled to such a thing as phone service without being forced to buy stock to get it.

NO OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SENATOR ELECTION

Preparation of ballots for the coming senatorial elections has not been started by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, because no formal notification of the election dates has been received from the governor. Mr. Hantschel is anxiously awaiting the notice as the large amount of work will have to be done in a very short time. He expects the message by Monday at the latest. Ballots must be printed and distributed and election notices sent to all town clerks of the county.

John Jr. and Mary Kohl had their tonsils removed Thursday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

STEINBERG, HUESEMAN ATTEND CONVENTION

Daniel P. Steinberg and C. H. Huesemann, Appleton insurance agents, have returned from Wausau where they attended the annual state insurance convention. Mr. Steinberg was reappointed chairman of the state committee on fire prevention. The principal speakers at the meeting were Stanley Smith, Wisconsin insurance commissioner, and B. W. Wells, Minnesota insurance commissioner, who gave a resume of the insurance laws an explained what will be expected of the departments this year.

Mrs. Sam J. Ryan of Monrovia, Calif., arrived in Appleton last night for a visit of several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Young. Her husband formerly was editor of the Appleton Crescent.

INSULL COMPANY STARTS WORK ON ELECTRIC LINES

Central Wisconsin Cities to Be Connected by High Tension System

Construction has been started by three crews on a 33,000 volt high tension line for a distance of 20 miles to connect the Central Wisconsin Power Co., Clintonville, with the Wittenberg Light & Power Co., Wausau.

The first two lines are now property of the Insull interests of Chicago, which recently purchased seven power lines from Paul H. Fischer and Henry E. Brooks, both former Appleton men. The sale involved over a half million dollars and was one of the largest utility deals of central Wisconsin.

The lines purchased include the Wittenberg Light & Power Co., serving Wittenberg, Elmdale and Birmingwood; Elderon Light & Power Co., serving Elderon; Mattoon Public Service Co., serving Mattoon, Aniwa and Phoenix; Leopold Light & Power Co., serving Leopold, Pella and Tilleda; and the rural district: Embarrass Electric Light & Power Co., serving the Pella farmer line together with Central Wisconsin Power Co., serving Clintonville, Embarrass, Caroline and 46 miles of 22,000 volts and 33,000 volts high tension line.

Mr. Brooks and Mr. Fischer took over the properties when they were in poor financial condition and in less than one year built up the combination valued at over a half million dollars. They will remain with the Insull people for the time being until the present construction has been completed. John Schwartz, an Appleton, is also employed by the company. The Insull interest is one of the biggest utility companies in the country. It operates plants in many Wisconsin cities including Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Ripon, Berlin, Beaver Dam, Baraboo, Portage, Madison and Tomah. It also owns the North Shore Electric line and operates 12 dams, two of which, those at Kibbourn and Prairie du Sac, are among the largest in the state.

MOVE LOCATION OF COLLEGE-AVE SIGNAL LIGHTS

The location of the traffic light signals at College-ave and Oneida-st. was changed Friday so that the signals will be on the near corner for approaching motorists, rather than across the street where they are not always easily noticed. The considerable complaint was made that strangers in the city seldom noticed the signal on the far side of the street, because in the majority of cities the lights are on the near side. The signals are being placed at a lower level so they will be directly in the approaching driver's line of vision.

REPAIRS ON CANAL TO BE FINISHED NEXT WEEK

Repairs on the banks of West canal, north of the Appleton Superior Knitting Co. mill is progressing rapidly, and it is expected the work will be completed next week. The West canal and middle dam have had little repair work since they were built about 50 years ago, and considerable strengthening of the banks was necessary by dirt filling, and by raising the banks slightly.

The concrete work at the entrance of the mill flumes of the canal has been completed. The concrete walls at the flumes were raised slightly. About 1,300 cubic yards of earth will be used for filling in and raising the canal banks. Last year a portion of one bank gave way, and slid into the canal. Frank Bartz has the contract for repairing and raising the banks.

FORM CARAVAN TO ATTEND FAIR

Merchants and Townspeople Will Flock to Big Exposition at Seymour

Plans have been practically completed for the role Appleton will play on Appleton day, Wednesday, Aug. 26, at the Seymour fair.

While stores and other business houses will not close up for a half day, as had been suggested previously, business men have agreed to release employees for a half day if they desire to attend the fair. Appleton and Seymour being at two extreme ends of the county, it was held that trade south of Appleton that has no particular interest in the northern fair.

It is understood, however, that a large delegation of business men will make the trip to Seymour. They are financing the 120th Artillery band which will give a concert at the fair on Appleton day. The band also has been engaged by the Seymour fair to play there on Thursday. The Artillery band will leave Appleton at about 12 o'clock noon, intending to start the concert at the fair at about 1:30.

Anybody who intends to visit the fair may obtain banners, automobile windshield stickers and hat bands to advertise the home town at the fair, by applying at the chamber of commerce office in the Insurance bldg. It

FINISH PAVING AT BLACK CREEK

Concrete Work Is Finished but Highway Has Not Been Opened to Traffic

Paving of Main-st of the village of Black Creek, on state trunk highway 47, was completed Thursday afternoon by the Garvey-Weyenberg Construction Co. of Appleton. The newly paved section will not be opened for some time, however, as the shoulders of the road are still to be built. Carl Becker of the county highway commission office, who has been spending the last week on the Black Creek job, returned to Appleton Thursday evening. The paving project has been underway all summer as the result of an attempt to secure an injunction a short time after the work was started. The Garvey-Weyenberg Co. held up the work until the injunction action was thrown out of court by Judge Edgar V. Werner. The village of Black Creek is said to have lost a large sum of money this summer through diversion of tourist traffic around it.

was announced by Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary.

Arrangements have been completed by band officials for an important engagement at the state fair at Milwaukee, the week of Aug. 31. The band will perform there both on Sept. 2 and on Sept. 3, according to an announcement by Capt. Eric Lindberg, military head of the organization.

Music in Your Household Budget

No budget of household expenditures is complete and well balanced unless it includes something for education, pleasure, refinement. Music is accepted as one of the most important home influences in the realization of these essentials of every day living. The piano is the universal musical instrument.

Knowledge of the piano is the open way to broader fields of personal accomplishment, social contact and development of an interesting personality.

In initial cost and annual upkeep, the piano is among the most economical of all forms of home equipment, pleasure, and education. In the purchase plan we offer to purchasers, we make it easy for you to write into the family budget an item of investment, not expense, that will yield unmeasured returns in the years to come.

In our display rooms you will find high-grade instruments to fit every home and every purse. Come in and let us show them to you.

PLAN PROGRAM FOR MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARDS

Superintendent A. G. Meating Invites Experts to Address Convention Here

Plans for one of the best school board conventions ever held in Outagamie county are being prepared by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, and his assistants. The annual convention is to be held Thursday, Aug. 28, in Lawrence Memorial Chapel and several representatives from each school district of the county are expected to attend. The state law requires that the clerk of each district must be present at the meeting.

The sessions will begin at 9:30 Thursday morning and continue until 3:15 in the afternoon. All school board members and teachers have been invited to the convention. A new idea being tried this year includes an invitation to all officers of county Parent-Teacher associations. A special period will be given over to this work under outside speaker who has had a great deal of experience in the work.

Each board member attending the meeting is allowed a per diem and mileage, provided he attends the entire day. Information for the purpose of making each board member more efficient in his work will be given out by experienced workers and questions will be answered. Friends of school board members or the county schools also have been invited to attend.

HUGE HONEY EXHIBIT FOR FAIR AT DEPERE

De Pere — Through the efforts of William F. Pagel of Chilton, the honey exhibit at the 1925 Northwestern Wisconsin fair will be made 100 times larger than last year. It is claimed Mr. Pagel has set out with that mark as his goal and he is confident that it will be attained. In order to interest beekeepers in the fair, Mr. Pagel prevailed upon the directors of the association to offer much greater premiums with the result that a total of $372 will be presented to the keepers with the best exhibits of honey and bees. The larger premiums will attract a record entry, Mr. Pagel believes. Only the state fair will hang up more premium money. If the exhibit is increased to the size aimed at it will be next in size to that of the state fair.

"This is the honey belt of Wisconsin," declared Mr. Pagel Friday. "and there is no reason why the exhibit at the Northwestern Wisconsin fair should not approach in size that of the state fair."

The magnitude of the honey industry in this part of the state is shown in the record production this year. One producer, Andrew Stevens, of Stockbridge, Calumet co., produced 55,000 pounds of clover honey this season. Calumet co. is said by Mr. Pagel to be the largest honey producing county in Wisconsin.

WANT COMPLETE PRODUCTS LIST

Chamber of Commerce Compiling Information on What Is Made Here

In an effort to obtain as near as possible a complete list of every single kind of product that is manufactured in Appleton, the committee on industry and transportation of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce has sent letters to all Appleton manufacturers asking for a description of its products.

The chamber of commerce office now has a list of all the Appleton industries together with the general nature of its products, but it happens that a number of concerns turn out a great variety of products. It is the purpose of the committee to prepare such data for use in the Appleton section of the Wisconsin Products exposition at the state fair the first week in September.

This information is desired immediately, and it is requested that it be turned at the chamber of commerce office not later than Saturday morning. It is believed that when this data is at hand, it will show that Appleton produces a great variety of articles in the way of food, wearing apparel, shelter and instruments for earning one's livelihood.

CAN'T DEDUCT GAS TAX FROM INCOME REPORTS

A ruling has been received from the internal revenue office on the question as to whether a tax of two cents per gallon to be paid by owners and operators of motor vehicles within the state constitutes an allowance deduction from gross income under the revenue act of 1924.

In cases of this kind, a dealer collects the tax and any purchaser may deduct the total price paid for the fuel as any ordinary or business expense. However, this tax is not deductible when it is on fuel used for pleasure cars as it is a personal expense.

As to the dealer however, the tax which is assumed or paid would be deductible.

PICK ONE OF JUDGES IN BETTER CITY CONTEST

Luther Gulick, Ph. D., director of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research and the National Institute of Public Administration, is to be judge of public administration in the Wisconsin Better Cities contest. It was announced by Aubrey W. Williams, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of social work, under whose auspices the contest is being carried on.

This will be of interest to citizens of Appleton, which is one of 14 cities entered in the contest. The other cities which completed the work in the contest were Ashland, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Janesville, Kaukauna, Ladysmith, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Sparta, Waukesha, Waupun and Wausau. Four cities which entered the contest at the start dropped out.

Mr. Gulick is a recognized authority in fields of government administration and finance. He has studied city, county and village governments in various sections of the United States.

Nokol now

November is only two months away. But you will need Nokol before then. The time to install is now. 22,000 home owners have found the even heat of Nokol indispensable during the sudden cold wave of early fall.

Nokol responds automatically and unflinchingly to every unexpected drop of temperature. It does this without smoke or soot, even when the boiler has been cold, because the Nokol flame never touches the boiler.

Nokol is able to use a higher grade of oil than the ordinary burner and at less cost. The fuel cost of Nokol burning distillate is less than that of hard coal. It is also to the best of our knowledge, less than that of any other oil burner regardless of the grade of fuel used.

To be sure of having your Nokol before the first cold days, call or phone us today.

THE SENATORIAL ELECTION

After keeping the matter carefully to himself for weeks, notwithstanding it was of great interest and concern to the state, Governor Blaine has set the election for the vacant senatorship for September 29. Both the election and the primary, which precedes it by two weeks, will be held within the short period of a little more than a month.

We do not know what the governor's precise motives may have been for fixing these dates, but of one thing we may be sure, and that is that he deemed both his previous silence and his action of advantage to the candidate with whom he has made a deal for his own subsequent election to the senate.

The shorter the campaign the better it will be for young La Follette. Mr. Blaine, of course, understands this. It is the general opinion that "Bob Jr." is incapable of making an effective campaign in his own behalf. Possibly he may be kept off the stump altogether; at least it is certain he will make no effort to thoroughly cover the state. The shorter his campaign the greater the prospect of his riding into office on the reputation of his father. The longer the campaign, the more likely it would be that his lack of qualifications and fitness for the senatorship would disclose itself.

The Blaine machine will use clever politics to win this election. The fixing of the date for holding it and the close mouth kept by the governor on the date that would be fixed are the initial moves.

POLITICIANS AND RAILROADS

A favorite theme of our reform politicians has been the denunciation of the transportation act commonly known as the Esch-Cummins law. Few laws have undergone greater misrepresentation than this statute. It has been charged, and it is still stated today by politicians who have no regard for veracity, that this act, for instance, guarantees a certain return to the railroads. Although there is nothing whatever in the act to justify the assertion, it is reiterated. All that the law does is to establish the principle that railroads are entitled to earn 5 1/2 per cent on their investment, provided they are able to earn it. It is also true that the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission have regard for this earning right. But no railroad is guaranteed any return whatever. It is up to each company to make its own profits out of the rates permitted and authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission. Had there been a guarantee of earnings, it is, of course, evident that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad would not have gone into the hands of receivers.

It is a strange fact that the railroad brotherhoods oppose this act, notwithstanding it improves through intelligent business rate-making, the possibility of profitable railway operation, and consequently increase the capacity for payment of good wages. Employees of the St. Paul ought to understand this as a result of their many lay-offs and reduced earnings in recent years.

It is also strange that so much of this opposition to the transportation act should emanate from Wisconsin, which has a state law governing public utilities that is for all intents and purposes an exact duplicate of the Esch-Cummins law. Not only this, but in Wisconsin utilities are granted what amounts to an absolute monopoly, coupled with the right to charge rates that will net and often does net as much as 7 per cent. Every utility in the state, gas, electric or railway, has no trouble in securing permission to charge rates that will guarantee it substantial profits. The rates established are made on that basis and that basis alone.

Our utilities law goes even farther than the Esch-Cummins act, therefore, in its so-called guarantee of profits. It not only allows larger returns, but it gives the utility an exclusive field in which to operate and protects it against competition. Nevertheless, our politicians applaud our utility law, and as a matter of fact, it is a good law. It has given Wisconsin excellent public utility service, and although the rates are high, it has permitted the utilities for the most part to keep out of the hands of receivers, operate profitably and give the people superior service.

The Esch-Cummins law does nothing for the railroads except to fix an earning basis of rates, which obviously is fair and reasonable and in fact very modest in its benefits. It does not protect them against competition. A little common honesty and fairness in dealing with the railroad problem, to the end that it might help restore our crippled transportation system to a better financial and physical condition, would become our politicians, particularly in view of the fact that the people at large, for whom they pretend to be so solicitous, would derive the greatest benefit in the form of improved transportation, steadier employment and consistently good wages.

TROWING AWAY MONEY

Reports from Madison indicate that the University of Wisconsin is to suffer the loss of a $600,000 endowment from the General Educational board as a result of the action taken by the board of regents against the further acceptance of gifts from incorporated organizations. The $600,000 that might have gone to Wisconsin will go to some other university. It will do the good there that it is not permitted to do in this state.

We have a few pin-headed members of the Board of Regents of the University to thank for this fool performance. The "holier than thou" attitude which they have adopted is a laughing fake. It is going to cost Wisconsin millions of dollars in educational endowments that would contribute to the efficiency and usefulness of the university, and to the benefit of mankind through research work.

All this is nothing to these spurious reformers, who wink at or participate in the most notorious political escapades and whose sole motive in the step they have taken is to contribute to their political popularity and power. Some day, when Wisconsin begins to use its common sense, it will get wise to these bunk artists.

CURBING THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

We are on the road to relief from the drunken driver menace. It is to come through application of the new state law which provides for suspension of the right to drive on conviction for reckless or drunken driving. The courts here are utilizing this law in most of the cases that come before them. We have had numerous suspensions of the right to drive in the last few weeks. This is punishment that will bring results. If we hold to it we will have most of the worst offenders legally enjoined from using the roads, and those who might be inclined to take a chance at the wheel while intoxicated will begin to think of the possibility of losing the right to drive at all.

Just as soon as it becomes generally known that a drunken driver is to be forbidden to drive for a certain length of time, it will have a sobering effect. Our judges are to be highly commended for invoking this new law, which offers the only real protection to the public in the enjoyment of its rights and privileges on the highways. We should like to see the policy adopted of suspending the driving right in every case of drunken driving, increasing the severity of the punishment with the flagrancy of the offense.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. And the names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

WE SHOULD SNEER

"One subject I have never read about in your column," writes a correspondent, "is convulsions or spasms, or whatever other name you have for them, that children have. You don't deny that children have convulsions, do you? Then will you kindly, or in a sneering way, tell us your ideas about them? And the correspondent goes on to describe a case, what this and that doctor said or did or didn't do at one time or another, and so on. I've always had in the back of my mind a fancy to buy a little farm away out beyond anywhere, to retire and live the simple life after I've lost my job. But now I can see I'll have to get a rather large farm, one with a 30 acre field in one corner to which I can repair at intervals and have a good sneer, far enough from simple folks, you see, so that they won't think I am sneering at them. They will probably be plenty of things and conditions left to sneer at, enough to keep me sneering schedule filled up for as long as I can stand the simple life. I suppose I might erect a sign beside the road warning passing strangers that the frightful spectacle in yonder field is just old Dr. Brady doing his regular morning sneer, kindly refrain from disturbing or molesting the doctor with irritating remarks until he recovers from the seizure.

Children sometimes have convulsions, fits or spasms. I make this admission freely and by my own will, without influence or duress from any quarter. I go even further and admit that babies and older children sometimes have worms. Nay or yea, as you please. I'm willing to concede that once in a great while a child who has worms has spasms, but the coincidence is insignificant, because nine children out of 10, who have worms never have any spasms, and nine out of 10 who have spasms have no worms.

Speaking of worms—and leaving the sneer about spasms for another day—a recent acquisition of the manager is a pup as Irish as Paddy's pig, but named Antonio. This Antonio had scarcely arrived at his new home, when the amateur dog expert looked at his gums, remarked that they looked pale and opined the pup had worms and even dispensed the medications for the treatment of the alleged infestation. But the pup seemed to keep pretty well, thank you, without the treatment. After a time the pup languished, and the veterinary physician was consulted. The physician determined by scientific examination that the pup had no worms, but only a distemper which cleared up in two days. Although I know nothing about dogs, the alleged "worms" by a mere pup, further expert diagnosis of the alleged worm medicine on him. The neighborhood gossip can spot "worms" in an ailing child by a mere glance at the face or a sniff of the breath. The facial sign which leads to so much cruel mistreatment of ailing children is particularly "white lines beside the mouth," especially with flushed cheeks and bright eyes and any restless twitching. Or add a peculiar nervous or sweetish odor on the child's breath, and you have practically condemned the child to such mistreatment.

Most of the alleged worm medicines urged by the neighborhood gossip are harmless enough to the worms and the child too, and sometimes the remedy is in reality nothing but a physic and an alkali which may be even beneficial to the child, but the great evil of this practice of amateur diagnosis is that it encourages delay in the proper treatment of the sick child, and that is a crime in which no respectable parent can be accessory.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How Do They Get This Way?

We have a baby 13 months old just starting to walk. A trained nurse visiting here, observing his feet, said he should not be allowed to walk barefooted, as he was inclined to weak arches and would likely become flat footed. As far as we can see he is normal. (Mrs. M. W. L.)

Answer.—What is Mrs. Gamp now wearing a uniform? Do not worry. When the nurse has a chance to see a few babies she will fear the whole race is becoming flatfooted.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 24, 1900.

While crossing the Mississippi river by train Monday night, Dr. J. S. Davis was robbed of a number of valuable papers and about $2 in cash. At a meeting yesterday at the Northwestern house of the Appleton Dairy Board of Trade, the offerings were 536 boxes of cheese, and sales were 180 cheddars of 10 1/2 cents and 4416 twins at 10 1/2 cents.

The government was making some needed repairs on the abutment wall of the southern extremity of the upper dam.

Veterans of the Civil war living in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha had chartered a special car to go to the national encampment at Chicago. It was expected that about 30 from Appleton would attend.

Riverview golfers won an interclub match with Meadowbrook golfers yesterday with the local men 9 holes to the good.

The Appleton baseball club was planning to visit the western part of the state next month to play with the Arcadia team in the Whitehall fair. Manager Tom Farley had entered the team in a baseball tournament at Stevens Point, Sept. 9.

Huntsman of this vicinity were getting ready for the opening of the wild duck season Sept. 1. Invitations were received by a number of Appleton people to attend a garden party to be given at Electric park in Oshkosh. The hosts and hostesses were: Mr. and Mrs. David Jack, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Oviatt, Mr. and Mrs. Merrick Peck and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hooper.

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, Aug. 20, 1915.

John Harney of Duluth, Minn., a member of the boat crew winning the regatta of the National Association of Rowing clubs at Springfield, Mass. last week was a guest at the home of Attorney and Mrs. Thomas H. Ryan.

A movement was on foot to organize the county treasurers, county clerks, clerks of courts, and district attorneys's associations into one association of county officials.

About 60 friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Schultz last evening to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Voss of Minneapolis who were visiting here.

Mrs. N. Thomas, Appleton-st., entertained at cards last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Muench who were visiting at the Thomas home.

Announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Miss Helen Onkels of Appleton and Martin Heindel of Kaukauna.

About 70 women were present at the picnic of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters held at Potato Point yesterday afternoon. Delegations were present from Little Chute, Kimberly, Kaukauna and Appleton.

ENGLISH MEN OF LETTERS OBTAIN LARGE INCOMES

Hall Caine Leads British Writers With $500,000, Barrie Gets $220,000 Annually

From The New York Sun.

The public has been given some information on the incomes of living British authors. At the top of his list stands Hall Caine with an income of $500,000 a year.

More than a million of Caine's books have been sold within the last three years. No pay of his has ever failed and he adds to his income from sale of the motion picture rights.

Next comes Barrie, who has received as much as $220,000 in a year out of his novels and plays. Peter Pan alone brought $250,000 in royalties to him. Such an income from delicate and whimsical fantasies must provoke both envy and bewilderment in those who write solely for money and have always imagined that the one road to wealth was through "red-blooded" stuff or through audacious novels heavily flavored with sex.

Incomes of $100,000 a year are achieved by H. G. Wells, Bernard Shaw, W. Somerset Maugham and E. Phillips Oppenheim. Mr. Wells is credited with having made $300,000 out of his Outline of History. Arnold Bennett's average income is put at $50,000 a year.

NOT STARVING

Such incomes really make it look as if the old, romantic days of authors starving in garrets had passed. It is true that some of the men on this list had early struggles for meals and recognition.

It is also true that more than one writer today, destined to future fame, is somewhere toiling obscurely, counting pennies to make both ends meet.

But the reading public today is so enormous, its appetite is so great and there are so many hundreds of reviewers waiting to hymn any new books that reveals any sign of talent that the chances of merit remaining long in eclipse do not seem great.

One thought provoked by this list of incomes is that if British authors can earn these sums, what must be the incomes of American authors, who live in a country where the income scale is so much higher?

It is not probable, however, that the incomes just cited would compare unfavorably with those of our own writers. For the leading British writers have actually as much advantage from American purchasing power as have our native writers.

The fact that their works are published here by American publishers eradicates even the barriers of tariffs and transportation. One or two of these writers enjoy a greater vogue here than they do at home.

The Question Box

It is the desire and privilege of the organization this paper maintains in Washington to give reliable and prompt service to all requests for information. This is its purpose and its aim. It often happens, however, that readers write in for information and fail to give their name and address. Such occurrences leave the bureau helpless and, of course, the letters can not be answered. In order to avoid disappointment please make certain that your name and address is signed to every communication sent to the Bureau. Also be sure to enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Q. About how many oranges and grapefruit does the average person eat in a year? G. O. C.

A. It is estimated that each person in the United States eats on an average 58 oranges, 5 grapefruit, and 18 lemons. This is twice as much of these citrus fruits as were consumed five years ago.

Q. Did the United States have any rigid ariships during the World War? W. T. H.

A. The United States has never had any ariships of this type previous to the Shenandoah and the Los Angeles. It did operate a few non-rigid air ships.

Q. What is the object of the society called the Knights of Youth? W. H. D.

A. Knights of Youth, a new order whose purpose is the ethical training of school children, has been introduced in twelve public schools of New York City. Nearly 1000 children are enlisted in the ranks of knighthood in one school. This order acclaims character as the knight's noblest quest, and it was formed to combat the increase in juvenile crime. It is sponsored by the National Child Welfare Association.

Q. Which state publishes the largest number of daily newspapers? J. G. A.

A. New York State leads, with 200 dailies. Pennsylvania is second with 184 and California third with 181.

Q. How would the sun appear to a person at the pole during the time it is viewed? C. H. W.

A. The naval observatory says at the north pole the sun is above the horizon continuously during the six months between the vernal equinox and the autumnal equinox, below the horizon the rest of the year. It rises at the vernal equinox and moves in an ascending spiral, completing the circuit of the horizon once in 24 hours, until the summer solstice, when it is 23 1/2 degrees above the horizon. It then begins to sink in a descending spiral and sets at the autumnal equinox.

Q. Who should announce my wedding? My mother is dead, my father a sister and grandmother live together. G. M. F.

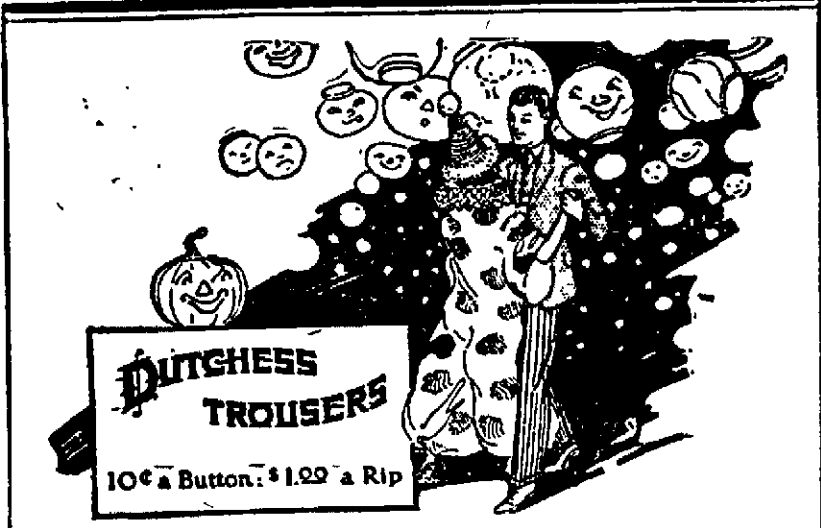

A. Your father should be the person to announce your marriage.

Q. Can a snake bite through a rubber boot? R. J.

A. The biological survey says that rattlesnakes are capable of biting through rubber boots. The lower part of such a boot is thick and a fair protection against such bites however, the upper part is not quite so great a protection. Rattlesnake rarely bite above the knees.

Q. When a pine thicket is cut down what makes an oak thicket grow in its place and vice versa? A. C. C.

A. The Forest Service says that when a pine thicket is cut down the oak growth which starts is a natural sequence of forest types. The acorns are doubtless brought to the pine forest by squirrels and other small animals and as soon as the large growth is removed it makes room for this oak growth which starts. The same would be true of an oak thicket being removed and pine trees starting to grow. Pine needles are doubtless blown into the oak forest from older

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

A TEST OF CHARACTER

In Carl Van Doren's book, "Contemporary American Novelists," I ran across this sentence: "Now the conclusions of a novelist are on the whole the test of his judgment and his honesty." I recommend that sentence to the serious consideration of all to whom the novel is more than a mere pastime, to whom it is as necessary to civilized living as history or biography or philosophy or any other form of literature. It is perhaps as nearly the law and the prophets of novel writing as any single brief sentence can express it.

There are cases on record of great novels with poor and even dishonest conclusions. Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" is perhaps the best known example of this type of book. It is by many considered the greatest novel so far produced in America and it is most certainly among the first three or four greatest American novels. Yet its conclusion is so weak that Stephen Crane said a school-boy could have done better. And the general opinion among discerning readers is that it is a very great book up to the last few chapters. Then Mark Twain lost either his nerve or his vision and descended to banality.

SAME CLAIM
And there are other books that have a right to the claim to greatness spite of weak or dishonest endings, but very often such an ending makes a lie of all that has preceded, and as Carl Van Doren's sentence indicates it is usually fair to test a writer's judgment and his honesty by his endings.

With quite a few writers it is a matter of poor judgement only. It is often assumed that all anyone needs to do is to choose between right and wrong. That is the copybook idea. Pupils are told to dare to be Daniels, to dare to choose the right, to have the courage of their convictions, always to be right rather than to pretend, and so on and so on. But life isn't as simple as that, as any mentally grownup person knows.

NEEDS COURAGE
There is usually greater necessity for courage and stamina for finding out what is right and what is wrong than for courage to choose the right and eschew the wrong. And many a writer who indulges in weak and dishonest endings merely lacks judgment or knowledge of life and he is no more conscious of dishonesty than is a wide-eyed party man who votes his ticket straight without taking the trouble to investigate who is running for office and whether he is worthy of support.

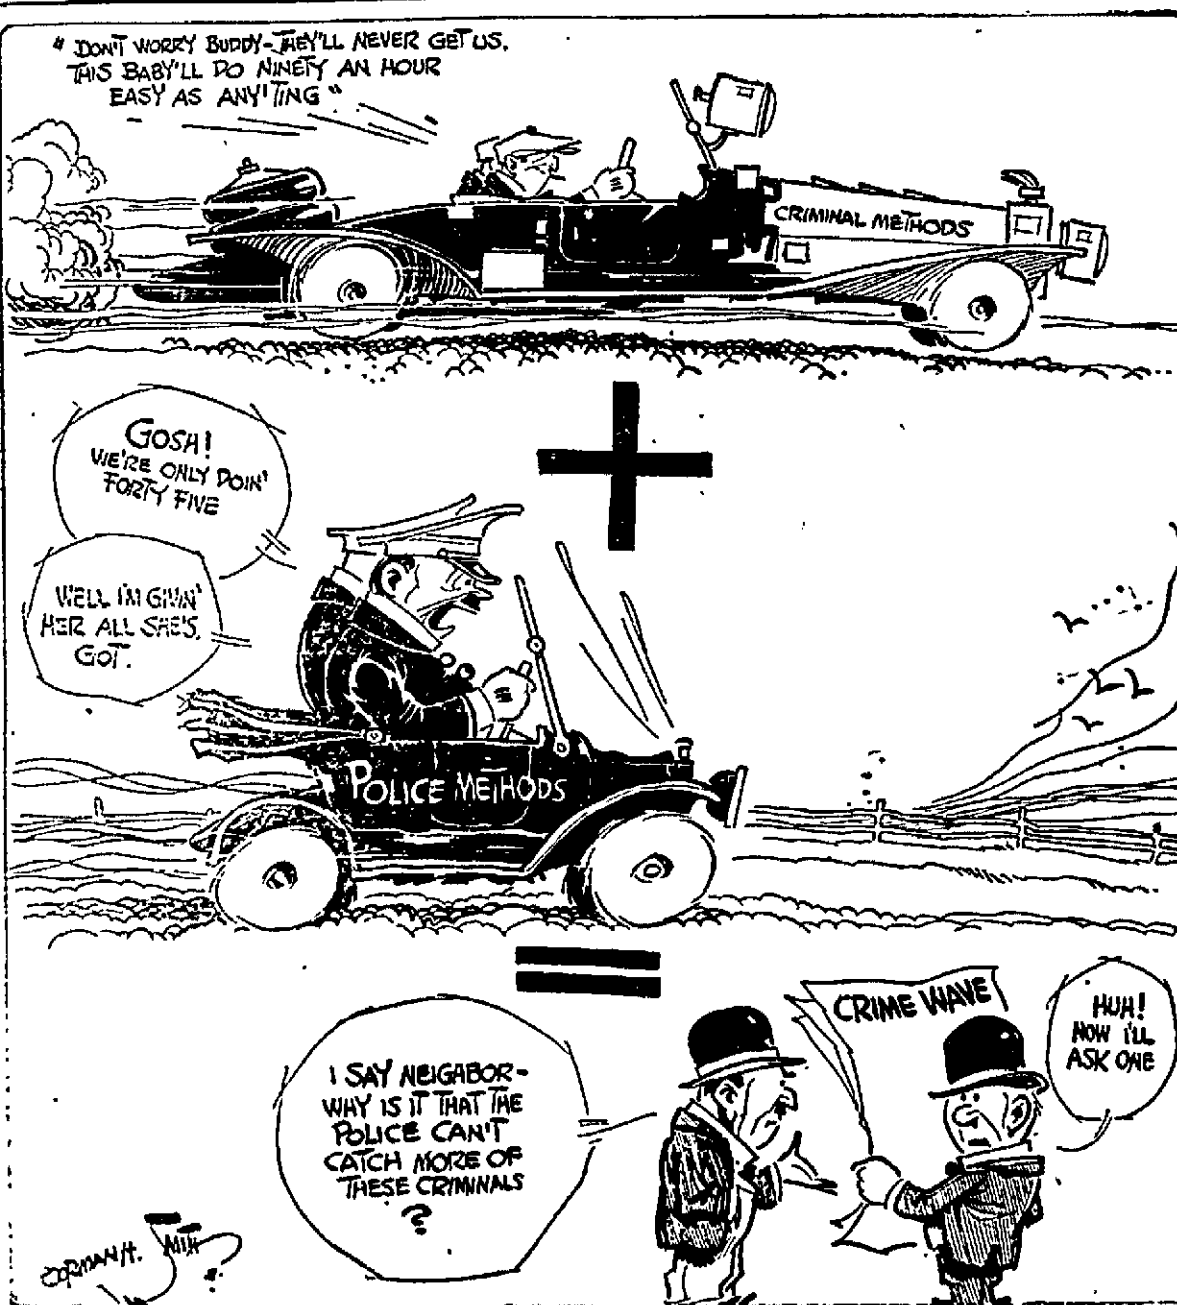

But there is also the conscious sinner among novelists. He is the writer who knows what life is, who understands that the "current platitudes" about morality and love and sex and all the other things that make up the novelist's material are not necessarily true. He is the man who sees clearly but who in spite of this, when his story has been developed to this kind of reader will keep on assuming that everything will turn out right in the end and as long as the writer is entertaining enough he can be about as honest as he pleases without alienating his public.

SHOWS COLORS
And such a writer is most likely to show his true colors in his endings. In the body of the story he may be indistinguishable for a thorough and thorough honest man. He shrewdly guesses or instinctively knows that the average reader, even the most sentimental one, can stand a very large dose of the truth. While the story is being developed this kind of reader will keep on assuming that everything will turn out right in the end and as long as the writer is entertaining enough he can be about as honest as he pleases without alienating his public.

But when the last page of the book comes—there's the rub. No matter if the whole story points inevitably to tragedy, the writer knows that millions of readers want to be sent comfortably to bed with the happy assumption that everything has worked out. He averted the tragedy, and made everything lovely in this most lovely of all worlds. If a writer has character and honesty he will resist this demand and accept, if necessary, neglect and obscurity; if not, he will give the readers what they want and often even throw up a smokescreen of moralizing.

There is no difference between honesty in art and honesty in life. It takes as much stamina to be an honest writer as to be honest in anything else.

Class in Arithmetic Will Please Come to Order

Women Of Greenville Form Group

Mrs. R. A. Nelson was elected secretary and treasurer of the Greenville group of the county department of Antelope Women's club at the meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Probst, Greenville. Mrs. William Menning, chairman of the group, presided at the meeting. Fourteen persons representing five organizations, were in attendance. Societies represented were the South Greenville Grange, Ladies Aid society of Greenville Lutheran church, Order of Martha, sodalities of St. Mary congregation at Greenville and sodalities of St. Mary church at Appleton.

Mrs. Menning demonstrated how canning is done in tin cans, and in a few minutes, she had one dozen quarts of beans canned and sealed.

The group is making plans for the meeting to be held on Sept. 16 at Probst hall, when an expert from Madison will be present to give demonstrations and instructions. Plans for late meetings will be made at that time. It is expected that Miss Gladys Meloche will be the instructor sent by the home economics department at Madison. Miss Meloche will give instructions four days each month for four consecutive months, visiting the Grand Chute group on Sept. 15, Greenville, Sept. 16; Ellington, Sept. 17; and Black Creek, Sept. 18.

R. N. LODGE ELECTS TWO NEW OFFICERS

Mrs. Emma Scherweke was elected past oracle and Mrs. Ruth Olson, chancellor, at the meeting of Royal Neighbors Thursday night in Odd Fellow hall to succeed Mrs. Guy Manning and Mrs. Metta Schmirler, who have moved from the city.

Mrs. Louise M. Parks of Neenah was present at the meeting Thursday and gave a talk about the "derby" membership campaign which is to start in September and will end sometime in January. Mrs. Ida Olson and Mrs. Rummage, supreme officers are expected to attend the meeting on Sept. 3 at which time plans for the drive will be discussed.

PARTIES

Mrs. Paul Ankam, 1128 W. Lawrence-st., was surprised by 10 friends Thursday evening in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards and dice was played.

Mrs. F. E. Holbrook, 740 E. College-ave., was hostess to 37 friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday afternoon at Riverview Country club. Prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Joseph E. Thomas; Mrs. William C. Wing and Mrs. C. L. Marston.

PICNICS

Male employees of the Gloumdemans-Gage company, and their families will hold a picnic next Sunday at Shawano lake. The crowd will leave the store Sunday morning and drive by automobile to the lake, where a picnic dinner and supper will be served. A baseball game, horse-shoe pitching, swimming and fishing, will furnish the entertainment. Frank Heindel is the chairman of the committee, in charge of the arrangements.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Womens Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church held a meeting Thursday afternoon in the church. Articles that will be distributed to members of the organization to be made for the bazaar to be held in the fall were cut and arranged.

Captains, lieutenants and members of committees for the membership campaign that is being conducted by the Holy Name society of St. Joseph church reported at the meeting Thursday evening in St. Joseph hall, that 150 candidates had already been obtained. The society is hoping to obtain 400 or 500 new members in the drive. The candidates will attend Holy Communion with members of the society the second Sunday in September.

CLUB MEETINGS

Calendar programs of the Travel Class club are ready for distribution to members according to the chairman of the program committee. The Travel class will hold its first meeting the first week in October. The study of Spain, which was not completed last year, will be continued.

CATLIN WINS TITLE ON CUE ROQUE MEET

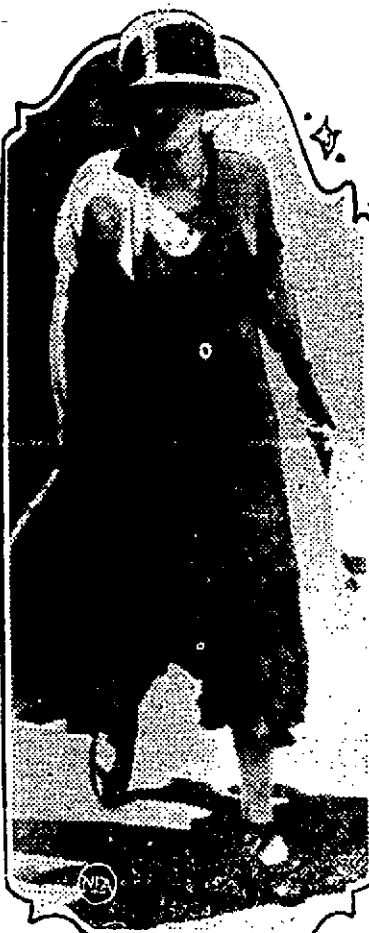

Mark Catlin, Jr. won first honors in the cue roque tournament of the Boys' division of the Y. M. C. A. held Thursday afternoon under the direction of J. W. Pugh, boys' work secretary. Sam Ornstein, who lost to Catlin in the finals, won second place. Eight boys were entered. Ornstein defeated Johnson. Specator beat Kimball. Leselyong took the measure of Meyer and Catlin won from Pogue in the opening round. In the second round, Ornstein and Catlin defeated Specator and Leselyong.

SPEND MILLIONS IN ATTEMPTS TO END INSECT PEST

Horticultural Board Blames Foreign Importations for Greater Part

By Associated Press
Washington—Millions of dollars now are being spent annually to control plant diseases and insect pests in this country, and prevent the entry of others from foreign lands.

The federal horticultural board of the department of agriculture, which has this work in hand, estimates that from 85 to 90 per cent of the real insect pest problems are due to foreign importations. Prominent among the insects are the gypsy and brown-tail moth, which entered from Europe; the Japanese beetle, from Japan; the cotton boll weevil, from Mexico; the European corn borer, from Europe, and the San Jose scale, from China.

Quarantines within the United States itself are maintained, prohibiting, for instance, the movement of cotton from isolated points in Texas, where infection has been found; corn and broom corn, sorghums and Sudan grass from infested areas in Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, on account of the European corn borer; and in certain counties in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, because of the Japanese beetle, which affects farm products between June 15 and Oct. 15.

An embargo on Malaga grapes from Spain is maintained because of the presence of the Mediterranean fruit fly. All fruits, except pineapples and bananas, grown in the Hawaiian Islands, are shut out from the American market because of the Mediterranean fruit fly and the melon fly. Several species of Mexican fruits are on the embargo list because of the Mexican fruit fly.

So vigilant is the federal horticultural board to keep these insect pests from American shores that its men go aboard incoming vessels and inspect their larders for forbidden fruits. A little persuasion is usually sufficient to have the undesirable fruit destroyed; otherwise a customs seal bars their use in American port.

Hortonville Couple Is Wed Sixty Years

MR. AND MRS. C. F. BUCK

Hortonville—An unusual event occurred here recently, when Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Buck celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary, a privilege which very few couples have the opportunity to enjoy.

A banquet of six courses was served in the dining room of Hotel Hoffmann Wednesday night. Covers were laid for 20. The dining room was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and gladioli carrying out the color scheme of pink and white. Immediate members of the family were present. Among them, Mrs. W. J. Green and daughter Catherine of Los Angeles. This was Mrs. Green's first visit home in ten years.

A reception was held at the Buck home following the dinner. Music and other social activities furnished entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Buck received many beautiful gifts.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Buck were born in Germany, the former being 87 year and the latter 76. They were married in Greenville Aug. 13, 1865, and they lived in Dale until 1871. Mr. Buck purchased a mercantile business in Hortonville and conducted it for 33 years. He retired 20 years ago, but he still takes an active interest in many business affairs of the city. He still is the president of the Bank of Hortonville. He served in the Civil war with Company D, 121st Wisconsin Infantry.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck had ten children of which the following nine are living: Mrs. W. J. Green, Los Angeles, Mrs. L. Graef, Appleton, Dr. Robert Buck, Ralph Buck and Arthur Buck, all of Chicago, Mrs. W. Knaack, Milwaukee, Mrs. A. Haller, Mrs. F. N. Toney and Mrs. Helen Hermann, all of Hortonville.

FLIERS EVOLVE NEW MAPS FROM LOFTY PERCHES

Exact Details of Countryside Are Shown in Experimental Strips

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C. — Aviation has developed as one of its by-products an entirely new science, the making of topographic maps for the use of those who wing their way through the air. The precise, everyday map of geographic memory is unsuited to accurate aerial navigation. The army air service has evolved experimental air maps, in strips, with the aid of the topographic branch of the geological survey. When a pilot takes off he is handed a strip map of the territory he will cover, 100 miles wide. Besides the emergency landing fields, this map shows the form of a city as it appears from the air; depicts the improved roads; records the altitude of the land in various colors so the birdman may steer a course consistent with the height of the terrain over which he flies. All bodies of water are shown, as are curves of railroads, with particular attention paid to where they cross roads, and at what point of the compass they enter a community.

Before this type of map was evolved the pilot took an ordinary map, drew a straight line in red ink on it, and followed this to his destination as his ability permitted. The new maps make for increased speed in flying a direct course.

Strip maps have now been completed along the army's model airway system, running from New York to Belleville, Ill., and southward to San Antonio, Texas, Southern New Eng-

COURT SAYS SALE OF OLEO MAY BE CONTINUED HERE

Judge Grants Order Restraining State from Enforcing Recently Enacted Law

The Wisconsin Distributing Co., wholesale distributors of oleomargarine in this city, has received word that it will be able to continue with the sale of oleomargarine after Sept. 1, despite the law enacted by the last legislature to prevent the manufacture and sale of this product in the state.

The local firm has been informed that on Aug. 12 the circuit court of Dane co issued an order restraining the state dairy and food commissioner from enforcing the law interfering with the sale of oleomargarine in Wisconsin.

The ruling was made by the court following the securing of an injunction by the Best Food Products Co., Chicago, manufacturers of a popular brand of oleomargarine, against the Wisconsin oleomargarine law which would discontinue both the sale and manufacture of the substitute for butter after Sept. 1.

The injunction enables both wholesalers and retailers to continue with the sale of oleo unimpeded by state inspectors and officials. The injunction will continue to hold until the law is declared either valid or invalid by the Supreme court.

The law over which the legal battle is to be fought provides that no dairy products can be combined with vegetable fats for the manufacture of oleomargarine or similar foods. Practical the entire margarine products is now made of a combination of vegetable fats and milk, it is claimed, and the law, if enforced, would bar oleomargarine from the state.

The law was passed at the insistence of dairy farmers who deplored the competition of the manufactured food with butter they produced. At the last session of the legislature it was contended that oleomargarine was an important factor in keeping down the price of butter.

Word of the action which the circuit court of Dane co had taken was sent to the Appleton firm by the John F. Jelke Co., Chicago, another firm which is taking an important part in pressing the suit for the firms interested in margarine manufacture. The Jelke company claims that the law is unconstitutional on the ground that it is discriminatory and unreasonable and attempts to legislate out of business an industry which has flourished in the state.

According to the complaint of the Jelke company, the law, while aimed at oleomargarine, would also prohibit the coloring of butter.

STATE LAKE REGIONS ATTRACT MORE TOURISTS

Green Bay — Wisconsin's lake region are growing in popularity as summer vacation resorts and for permanent summer homes, the increased tourist travel in the northern part of the state indicates. An increase is noted particularly in the Sturgeon Bay district where a toll bridge serves as the only entrance to the Door co resort region. Official figures of traffic over the bridge this year show approximately a 50 per cent increase in tourist travel over last year.

COUNTY HAS PAID ONLY $28.80 FOR BOUNTIES IN 1925

Only $28.80 has been taken from the county treasury for bounties on animals and birds so far this year according to the records of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. The big month of the year, however, is November and Mr. Hantschel expects to pay out quite a sum in that period. At that time in the year the "country kids" bring in plenty of gophers and crows to their town supervisors who collect the bounty for them. The county pays bounty only on crows, gophers, and such pests, while bounties for wolves, wildcats and the larger animals come from the state. About the only time in the year in which crows and gophers are shot in large numbers is in November. Mr. Hantschel said, Last year $714.15 was paid out for bounties by the county in the entire year and $603.95 of that amount was paid out in November, leaving only $108.20 for the other 11 months.

TWELVE SHRINERS GET DEGREE AT CEREMONIAL

Twelve Appleton candidates will receive initial work at the big Shriner's ceremonial of Neenah Saturday. Shriners from the Tripp temple of Milwaukee will be in charge of the work. There are 100 candidates from the Fox River valley. Members from the Appleton shrine club, which was formed last week, will attend the ceremonial.

The final voting on candidates will be at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Candidates must be at the Neenah ceremony at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The shriner's parade will be at 2 o'clock, and after this there will be a drill and band concert by the shriners of Tripp temple of Milwaukee. At least 500 Milwaukee men will attend the ceremonial. The Eastern Star of Neenah will serve supper to the 4,000 people expected at the ceremonial.

Special prayers recently were offered in Durango, Mexico, for relief from the scorpion pest.

Observance Of Simple Rule Makes Driving Safe

No vehicle shall be operated at a speed such that it cannot be stopped within the assured clear course ahead. This one simple driving rule will, if conscientiously followed, make it impossible for an accident to occur for which the driver is to blame, said Dr. H. C. Dickinson, physicist of the Bureau of Standards, who originated the rule and made the first public announcement of it at the summer meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers the latter part of June. As explained by Dr. Dickinson, the rule means merely that no one should drive a motor vehicle at a rate of speed at any time that would not allow of stopping within a distance where the course could be seen clearly and where no person, vehicle or train could be at the same point as the first vehicle at the same time. For example, when approaching a blind street intersection or a road turn or crossing, speed would be regulated so that if another vehicle were approaching on the cross thoroughfare or around the turn, even on the wrong side, the vehicles could be stopped before the two could collide. Similarly, when approaching a railroad crossing, the speed would be reduced to such a rate that if an unseen train were coming, the car could be stopped before getting on the track. At intersecting highways obstructed by buildings, shrubbery or embankments, the speed should be reduced so that the car can surely be stopped before reaching the middle of the cross street until the angle of vision past the obstruction is at least forty-five degrees, and Dr. Dickinson recommended that cities mark this angle on all street pavements at blind intersections and forbid the parking of vehicles between such lines and the crossings. The rule applies equally well to topping a rise in the road and to passing vehicles going in the same direction. The driver shall not approach the top of a hill at a speed that will not permit him to stop within half the distance at which he can first see a vehicle approaching from the other side, nor turn out to pass to the left of a car unless he has time to get back on the right side of the road before meeting a car coming from the opposite direction. In the latter case, the speed of the car on his right, which he is passing, should be taken into consideration. "The clear course ahead depends upon road and traffic conditions, some of which are continually changing, and the driver is responsible for being able invariably to stop within the clear course ahead," said Dr. Dickinson. "Stopping distance with relation to the clear course ahead is the most important factor of safety. It must be assumed that a vehicle or person may emerge at any instant from behind an obstruction to the vision or that an obstacle may be just around a bend. "Many of the present regulations

OLD HOUSE NUMBERS HELPED MAIL CARRIERS

Many people have left their old house numbers on their residences up to the present time. While the city ruling stated that the old numbers should remain on the houses at least a month after the new numbers had been put on, it was said at the post-office that leaving the old numbers on for a longer time has really been more of an advantage than a disadvantage to letter carriers, as many of the letters are addressed to the old addresses. The advantage to the post-office of the old numbers is especially great when substitute carriers are being used who have not yet become thoroughly acquainted with the new numbering system.

Trying to make poor gas of common brand "do for summer" is arguing that a few degrees of outer temperature can remove the harmful kerosene and carbon elements that make poor gas practically unstartable in winter—which is only the outer sign of the inward inferiority. The thermometer may temporarily hide the poor starting but can't eradicate the cause. Its full harmfulness stays right there—winter and summer alike. And winter and summer alike, 370 gives you the carbon-free keroseneless protection that your motor investment deserves.

DOROTHY ADSIT JOINS FAMOUS STAGE CIRCUIT

Appleton Dancer Will Appear in Dancing Number at Orpheum Theatres

Dorothy Adsit, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Adsit, 208 W. Prospect-ave., has signed a contract with the Wright troupe of dancers of the Orpheum Vaudeville circuit, and will make her first big stage appearance on Aug. 23 at the Majestic theatre of Chicago. Miss Adsit has been in Chicago since the middle of June rehearsing with the Wright dancers.

There are eight girls in the dancing troupe of which Miss Adsit is a member. She will do one solo dance and also a dance with a partner, as a part of the program. Miss Adsit will be at the Majestic theatre for one week, and following this her company will go on the road playing only in the larger cities of the United States. Later in the year the Wright dancers are booked in New York, where they will play for several weeks. They have already appeared in some of the smaller Chicago theaters, but these appearances have been for practice work.

Miss Adsit appeared in a number of amateur theatrical productions in Appleton, and played the leading role in "Three Sheets to the Wind," the spring musical comedy of the Tormentors, Lawrence dramatic club. She received her training in dancing from Mrs. J. F. Bannister of the Bannister dancing academy.

CONTAGION WIPED OUT OF APPLETON

Eleven Cases of Contagious Disease in July, Health Officer Reports

Although contagion is now reduced to practically a minimum in Appleton, this city had no fewer than 11 cases of contagious disease during July, according to the monthly report of Dr. W. C. Felton, city physician and health commissioner.

While only one case each of diphtheria and smallpox was reported, scarlet fever added four, whooping cough four cases and erysipelas one new case. In his report of vital statistics, Dr. Felton listed 45 births, 21 deaths and 17 marriages for the month. In the capacity of city physician he made 10 visits to the poor and received 17 visits from the poor.

Theodore Sander, deputy health officer, quarantined homes for six cases of contagion and placarded homes for four cases of contagion. He fumigated 10 homes and released 16 from quarantine. He investigated a total of 58 complaints. He inspected 10 stores and milk stations and tested 15 samples of milk.

MISSISSIPPIANS TO VIEW STATE INDUSTRIES

Milwaukee—Dairy pilgrims from the south will enter Wisconsin Friday for a study of the industry in this state. A delegation from Mississippi will make a three day tour of the state, beginning Friday. They, and a group from Tennessee that will be in Wisconsin next week, will be guests of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders Association and the Greater Wisconsin association.

Two cars of exhibits, including samples of cotton and corn as well as educational, agricultural and medical displays from the state university will be brought on the "Know Mississippi Better" train.

The train will visit Fort Atkinson, Milwaukee, Waukesha, Lake Mills, Madison and Monroe. The group from Tennessee will go as far north as Dodge-co.

SAYS SCOTT IS SUBJECT TO CERTAIN DELUSIONS

Chicago — Russell T. Scott is described as an undetermined case, possibly a "paranoiac subject to delusions of persecution," by Frank A. Stubblefield, superintendent of the Chester Hospital for the criminal insane.

"I don't know whether he is sane or insane," Dr. Stubblefield was quoted in a special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune from Chester, where the convicted murderer of a Chicago drug clerk recently was taken after a jury had decided he had become insane.

Dr. Stubblefield has lived for 25 years among the insane.

"It is pretty hard for them to fool me long," he declared. Scott has begun to take up writing.

"I am trying to analyze my case," Scott said, "and looking at it from all angles. I do not blame the jury that convicted me. I am the victim of circumstances."

RENT BASEMENT OF MOOSE HALL FOR H. S. MUSIC

Board of Education Secures Place to Carry on Choir and Band Rehearsals

Appleton high school musical organizations will do their practicing, work out their concerts, and rehearse their stage productions in the lodge building owned by the Loyal Order of Moose at 503 N. Morrison-st., according to an announcement from William H. Kreiss, chairman of the building and grounds committee of the high school board.

The committee reached an agreement with the directors of the Moose whereby the high school has rented the basement of the Moose hall for its musical organizations for the coming school year. The rental is to be $500 a year, according to Mr. Kreiss.

High school musical organizations include a band, an orchestra, boys glee club, girls glee club, and a mixed choir made up of the two glee clubs. The band is made up of two sections, the first section having 31 members and the second section having 33. This makes a total of 67 high school students in the entire band. The Appleton high school orchestra has 25 students. There are two sections of the girls glee club, section one having 48 girls, and section two having 53, making a total membership of 101. The boys glee club has 45 voices, and the total number of voices in the mixed choir is 146.

MOOSE WILL VACATE
The Loyal Order of Moose will vacate the basement of their hall immediately, and high school furniture band and orchestra equipment will be moved in soon.

Three striking advantages of the new location for the high school music department were cited at the high school office. The noise of practicing which hinders students at their studies, will be eliminated. Formerly it was necessary to have glee club and orchestra practice in the high school building at the same time other students were trying to study. Band practice was held in the Appleton women's club playhouse on W. Harrison-st last year but space in this building was very limited. Plenty of space will be afforded in the new quarters for any of the school's musical clubs to hold practice. The location of the Moose hall is very convenient to the high school, and no time will be lost in going from one building to the other between classes.

A program in the assembly session will be given once a week by one of the high school musical organizations, according to present plans. The boys and girls glee club will meet once a week for mixed choral work. Carl McKee will be in charge of all high school music for the coming school year.

Schedule

Kaukauna — A football schedule that is a credit to Kaukauna high school has been arranged for the coming season by William Smith, athletic coach. At least three of the games on the list are with schools which are without question in a class far above the Electric City as far as athletics are concerned. But the success of the team last season, its responses to efficient and systematic coaching and the possibility of good material in the incoming flock of students made it necessary to seek in higher places for competition for the sake of comparison.

West Green Bay high, Two Rivers and Appleton are the three teams which are making this season's schedule a thing to look forward to by local fans. All games will be played during the latter part of the season when the local squad will be in its best condition, barring injuries. New London, a rival which was overwhelmed last season, will open the calendar on the local grid on Saturday, Sept. 26. A game or two will be played previous to that date for practice purposes.

Games for the rest of the year are booked for consecutive Saturday in the following order: East De Pere at De Pere; Menasha at Menasha; West Green Bay at Kaukauna; Two Rivers at Kaukauna; Neenah at Kaukauna and Appleton at Appleton.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Ladies' of the Methodist church will serve ice cream, sandwiches and coffee at a lawn social next Monday on the lawn in front of the H. S. Cooke home, 312 Catherine-st. The sale will continue from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 5 o'clock at night.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid society of Reformed church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Reinhold, 206 Sixth-st. It was a kitchen shower. About 25 ladies were present. The afternoon was spent in social visitation.

RAIN DRIVES MASONIC PICNIC TO CITY HALL

Kaukauna—Quick work on the part of the committees in charge of arrangements for the Masonic picnic saved the event from being failure Thursday afternoon when more than 200 members of the Masonic organizations in this city assembled at the city auditorium when the rain made the camping grounds too wet to be comfortable. The use of telephone and automobile early in the afternoon spread the news that the auditorium would be the meeting place. After a picnic supper around two long tables which occupied practically the entire auditorium floor, many remained to play volleyball and cards.

FEW KAUKAUNA FOLKS
AT MISSION MEETING

Kaukauna—Members of the local Reformed church have not been as conspicuous as in previous years at the annual Missionary Conference of the Sheboygan Classis in session this week at the Mission House near Plymouth. Mrs. Julius Lindermuth, delegate, and the Rev. E. L. Worthman are attending the conference, at which the Kaukauna group usually was the largest and most active.

A large group, however, is expected to make the trip by auto to the Mission House to attend the closing sessions of the conference on Sunday. The usual order of services will be held with Sunday school at 8:30 and morning worship at 10:15. Sessions will be held in the afternoon and will close with junior and senior Christian Endeavor meetings in the evening. There will be no services in the local Reformed church Sunday morning.

Union System of Deliveries Contemplated by New London Dealers

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London — This city soon will have a union delivery system, if plans of several of the city's merchants work out. This system of delivery has been discussed here for a long time, but no action had been taken until now. Under this method all merchants who cooperate in the plan would have their merchandise delivered by one common carrier, who would make trips around the entire city.

Six local establishments are interested in the new system. They are F. A. Jennings' Markets, Krause Markets, Cook Market, G. A. Vandree's Department store, Halvorsen's Grocery. It is expected that others will fall in line with the new movement later, so that the union delivery system may be started about Sept. 1.

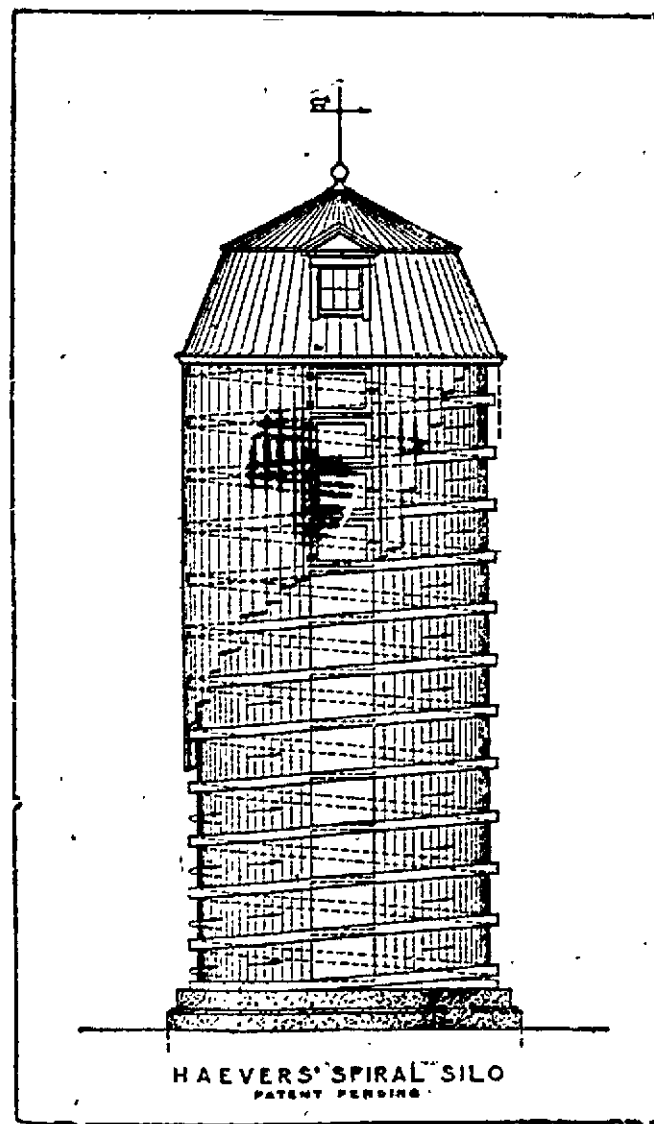

Ed Riske has signified his willingness to become the delivery man for the new plan. It is planned to have three deliveries a day, at 8 o'clock and 10 o'clock in the morning and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

HURT IN CRASH AT WRIGHTSTOWN

Leone Penneburg Suffers Broken Collar Bone When Auto Hits Car Parked on Road

Special to Post-Crescent.
Wrightstown—William Coenen, Greenleaf, while driving Wednesday evening in company with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Penneburg and daughter Leone noticed a car had stopped in the middle of the road in highway 15 at the John Bess farm. Two other cars passing him forced him to run into the automobile. The daughter Leone Penneburg suffered a broken collar bone and the other occupants were badly shaken up but not injured.

The Wrightstown band will give a concert at Ridge Point park Labor day Sept. 7. There will be a community Harvest picnic and Labor day celebration. The Coenen's eight-piece orchestra of Manawa will furnish the music in the dancing pavilion. The big feature will be a wrestling match at 3 o'clock between Howard Blazer of Green Day, and Jack Lester of Oconto Falls.

The Rev. Father Buytaert who left last Sunday afternoon is camping at a lake in Manistique, Mich. with four other priests. Father Buytaert is greatly troubled with asthma and hay fever and hopes this outing will improve his health.

Theodore Coenen, a resident of the town of Wrightstown, is seriously ill at his home.

ELLIS TELLS OF PLAN TO BUILD AT GREEN BAY

Superintendent of Traction Company on Witness Stand in Hearing

Green Bay—The site which the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Company recently acquired for the erection of a steam plant was acquired through the efforts of some representative of the Northern Paper Mills, it was testified in county court Thursday, at the reopening of the hearing on condemnation proceedings instituted by the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. against Brown and Co. The site was described as being just north of Fox river, and was secured some sixty or ninety days ago, according to the testimony.

The principal witness examined was A. K. Ellis, vice-president of the Peninsula Power company, and general manager of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company. Mr. Ellis stated that S. B. Way, president of the Wisconsin Gas and Electric, first spoke to him about building a steam plant in Green Bay during May or June of 1925.

CONSIDERED THREE ROUTES
"But when we the decision to build reached definitely?" asked Attorney Jerome North, representing the Wisconsin Public Service corporation, which is opposing the petition for condemnation.

"Mr. Way seemed positive at the time," answered the witness.

Later, according to the testimony of Mr. Ellis, three routes were considered for the erection of a transmission line which would connect the power pool in the southern part of the state with the properties of the Peninsula Power company in the north. Two of these routes entered Green Bay.

The Peninsula Power Co. is at the present time unable to fill the power demands of its customers because of the low stage of water in the rivers. It is planned to inter-connect all the subsidiary companies of the North American. These companies serve 71 communities in the state, and are separately operated and managed, although the majority of the common stock in each is held by the North American interests.

CAN'T IDENTIFY "JUICE"

Asked "Does the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. propose to transmit power generated by companies other than itself?" Mr. Ellis answered, "Some power generated by other companies—yes. Not all, however."

"There is no way of identifying power as to whether it originated in one plant or another if several plants are loading the same wires. Mr. Ellis testified, "You can measure the input and output, but you can't identify the energy—at least, I don't know how you could do so," he said.

LOAD LESS THAN CAPACITY

Mr. Ellis was questioned as to some length on whether it is proposed to build a loop between Forest Junction and Appleton. "A right-of-way has been purchased wide enough for two lines of towers between Forest Junction and Appleton," he stated. "But I do not know the blueprints which specify the erection of two lines."

The high peak load at the Appleton plant of the Wisconsin Traction Light and Power Co. was 13,500 k. w. during the past year, Mr. Ellis said. The approximate capacity of the plant is 24,000 k. w.

Mr. Ellis was on the stand for almost three hours.

RADIO COVERS WHOLE COUNTRY

Signal Corps Officers Say System Saves Government Big Expense

Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge's economy program has found an active ally in radio which, army signal corps officers say, saves the government about $100,000 annually in communication charges.

The army handles the message business of many of the departments inland, just as the navy takes care of government coastwise and off shore traffic, and the signal corps has built up what its officers term "the most complete and perfected radio network in the world."

The message center of the war department, located in the Munitions Building, is the nerve focus of the radio system. Twelve stations link the various corps area headquarters with Washington, and within each of the corps units there are radio stations for inter-area work, comprising 40 stations in all. There are 21 Alaskan stations, and 17 distributed through the insular possessions and Panama. Army transports also are equipped with radio.

The signal corps is using this government business to train its personnel, the equipment and traffic being controlled from Washington. At Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Salt Lake City, Utah, are installed ten-kilowatt tube transmitters to relay transcontinental messages. From Washington to New York and also to Baltimore, the corps maintains leased telegraph wires, but the rest of the system is an all-radio one. Installation and operation are done entirely by signal corps personnel.

In conjunction with its radio system, the signal corps maintains a weather-forecasting service for army airplanes. Captain E. F. French is in charge of the radio net, under Colonel N. F. McClure, signal corps officer in charge of communication facilities.

Chicago Publisher Owned Big Estate At Green Lake

The death of Victor F. Lawson, Chicago publisher, may mean for Wisconsin the breaking up of the Lawson estate at Green Lake. Wis. one of the finest country places in the state. For many years this large tract bordering the shores of Green lake has served as a vacation place for Mr. Lawson.

The estate was developed from upland farms and has large parked acres. Through the purchase and resale of portions of it the area was constantly changing, although it was said at one time to contain more than 3,000 acres. Of this a good part was devoted to farming and the raising of dairy cattle, the herd being one of the best in the country.

27 MILES OF ROAD
To permit visitors to view the place and to allow the ready transportation of the farm machinery, 27 miles of macadam roads were built. Many of the buildings were done in artistic forms to disguise their utilitarian features. A series of watch towers served for pumping stations and siphons through which water was carried to every part of the estate.

Electric lights on concrete posts, similar to those in public parks, lit up the lake shore in the vicinity of the boat houses. Entrances to the place were in the form of brick gates. A nine-hole golf course and a small golf club building were also on the place.

OVER 30 BUILDINGS
Mr. Lawson's own house, Lone Tree Point, was only one of a group of 30 or 40 buildings scattered through the grounds. There were farm buildings, boat houses and garages and homes for the caretaker and helpers. At one time more than 100 men were employed to keep the estate in order, although this number was cut down in recent years. The superintendent of the estate is W. A. Merigold.

APPLETON MAN ATTENDS CONVENTION IN DENVER

Wilbur E. Smith, Appleton agent of the Central Life company left Tuesday for Denver, Col., to attend the national school of instruction convention being held in that city the latter part of this week. Fifty men and women composed the party which went to the convention from Wisconsin. They occupied two all-steel Pullman cars, and these cars were joined to the special train at Des Moines, Iowa, Thursday morning, carrying agents from other states to the convention. The Wisconsin delegation will make a striking appearance as all will be decked in cardinal hats embellished with a gold badger, and a Wisconsin pennant.

OLD TIME TEA PLANTS NOW USED FOR HEDGES

By Associated Press
Summerville, S. C.—Hundreds of old tea plants, gathered from over the world during the time when tea growing was a profitable industry, have grown to the size of small trees and are now being transplanted here for landscape purposes.

Before the Chinese tea growers discovered that they could produce the leaf and market it in the United States at a greater profit than the American growers, the cultivation of tea was done at a financial profit in this section.

Dr. Charles U. Shepard, once owner of one of the largest tea plantations, who died in 1915, became interested in the industry after his arrival here from Connecticut many years ago. He collected plants from China and Japan and began scientific experimentation with them. Many of the trees on the Shepard plantation will be dug up for use in borders, and other landscape effects.

forms to disguise their utilitarian features. A series of watch towers served for pumping stations and siphons through which water was carried to every part of the estate.

Electric lights on concrete posts, similar to those in public parks, lit up the lake shore in the vicinity of the boat houses. Entrances to the place were in the form of brick gates. A nine-hole golf course and a small golf club building were also on the place.

STAGE And SCREEN

"THE WHITE MONKEY"
Barbara La Marr, noted as the screen's most beautiful actress, has just been filmed in a new Sawyer Lubin picture—a version of John Galsworthy's novel, "The White Monkey." The production, presenting a keen analysis of the world war's effect upon the modern woman, will be shown at the Elite theatre for the last time tonight.

THREE STARS IN NEW PICTURE HERE SOON

Struck down by a horned viper, whose sting is considered fatal, with no one to attend to him in his desert isolation except a physician who is his sworn enemy—can you see any chance of succor for the luckless Hercules Picpoint.

Banish any thought of the nobility of mind on part of the doctor—he is drinking-behuddled and, sensing an old love affair between his wife and his patient, he has only one instinct, and that is to exact revenge.

The outcome of this situation furnishes a tremendous surprise climax for "The Lady Who Lied," the new First National offering at the Elite Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

STELLAR CAST IN EVE'S SECRET

The day of the long drawn out cast of characters—names that don't mean a thing to theatre-goers is about over, judging from recent pictures in general, and the new Paramount production, in particular.

"Fewer and bigger names" seems to be Paramount's motto.

For the first time in their screen careers Betty Compson and Jack Holt are co-starred in a picture in "Eve's Secret," written for the screen by Adelardo Helblrom from the Broadway hit, "The Moon-Flower," by Zoe Akins, which was in turn based on Lajos Biro's European success.

Holt has the role of a quick-tempered Duke whose chateau overlooks the little French village of d'Enville. The Duke's faith in the women of his own rank is pretty much frayed out as the result of finding the Princess, the woman he was to have married, in the arms of another man. Holt removes the man in the case in a duel and then fares forth into the village where he meets Betty, playing Eve, a cobbler's daughter. It's a case of love at first sight, and he sends her to Paris to be educated, intent on making her his wife.

William Collier, Jr., recently seen in "The Devil's Cargo," and who has the little role in the forthcoming Paramount production, "The Wanderer," which brings the Prodigal Son to the screen, heads the supporting cast. He has the role of Pierre, who also lives in the village. He is left a small fortune by an uncle and later scenes find him at a resort on the Riviera where he meets Eve, now a gorgeously gown, elegantly mannered woman. The Duke and he engaged in a duel over the girl. Pierre wins the duel but

THREE MEN HURT, TWO CARS WRECKED IN COLLISION

TWO MACHINES CRASH HEAD-ON ON HIGHWAY 18

Quartet of Fond du Lac Men Hurt When Car Is Wrecked by Minnesota Man

A fishing trip ended in near tragedy for a party of leading Fond du Lac business men in a head-on collision with a Minnesota car on Highway 18 at 6:30 Thursday evening when three men were injured and both automobiles were badly damaged.

Three men were injured, the one in the most serious condition being F. J. Wolf, president of the Citizens National bank of Fond du Lac, and former mayor of that city. It was first thought that his injuries were not so serious as those of the other two, but after he was taken from St. Elizabeth hospital to his home in Fond du Lac, he was in such pain that he could not be removed from the Fond du Lac hospital. His chest has been crushed, and his condition is very critical.

The others injured are R. J. Kremer, president of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical society, and a Fond du Lac druggist, who accompanied Mr. Wolf and who is suffering with a compound fracture of the leg, and Charles Burgeon, 35, a merchant at Seneca, Minn., who has a severe gash in his left leg. Both are in St. Elizabeth hospital.

COLLISION HEAD-ON

The Fond du Lac party, traveling in a sedan, and consisting of Mr. Wolf, Mr. Kremer, Leo G. Korner, president of the Fond du Lac Association, Commerce, and A. J. Kremer, brother of the man who was injured and associated with him in business, were on their way home from a trout fishing trip. Their sedan was headed west on the Medina rd and just as they passed the Triangle school at the junction with Highway 26, the car was struck head-on by the smaller sedan driven by Mr. Burgeon.

Although the police answered an ambulance call and made inquiries about the cause of the accident, it has not been determined just how the cars collided. A tour map was lying open on the seat of the Minnesota sedan. Both cars were traveling at a rate of about 30 miles an hour causing at least a 60-mile an hour impact, it was said.

Burgeon was flung through the windshield of his sedan and the breaking glass cut a deep gash into his leg. Neither of the cars tipped over, however, and it is not believed that any of the Fond du Lac men were thrown out of their vehicles.

The Fond du Lac car was most seriously damaged. The front end was battered in and the body was pushed ahead about a foot. It is practically a total wreck. The front end of the Minnesota car also was demolished.

Both bones in the leg of B. J. Kremer were broken below the knee, while Mr. Burgeon had a gash on his left leg that was about 8 inches long and 3 inches wide. The wound was cut open to the bone.

Dr. Arthur Genter, prominent Sheboygan surgeon, is in a critical condition in a Fond du Lac hospital where doctors late Thursday night amputated his left arm at the elbow because infection set into a wound caused by an automobile accident on Highway 23, near Fond du Lac, Tuesday night. A hurried operation was necessary to save the surgeon's life, it was reported.

Dr. and Mrs. Genter were returning to their home from Lake Buttes des Morts, where they had been spending several days, when the accident occurred. Their automobile tipped over at a turn in the road.

Miss Genevieve Eberhardt, 212 N. Mead-st, is spending a two weeks' vacation at Tomahawk Lake.

Trout Fishermen:

Just ten more days and you will have to put your tackle away until May 1st of next year. Better get in another day. A No. 4 spinner ahead of worms, or a Palmer grasshopper on the surface. Make some excuse—it's a darned good chance to take advantage of.

Bass and Pike Fishermen: You won't fish until June 1st next year. Don't neglect the two beautiful months from now on. Those hours during the day when ducks won't fly will net good returns to the bait caster. Try a Heddon Vamp—it'll write fishing history for you.

Campers: Just add an extra blanket to your out we carry camp blankets in stock and you'll find that you can enjoy more than one weekend.

Hunters: It is not too early to go over the gun. A bottle of Nitro Solvent, a can of oil, a tube of gun grease, or rust remover will make the old shooting iron act and look like the day you bought it. Maybe you are planning on a new gun and it would be well to bear in mind that we have a part payment plan that will permit you to own a pump or an automatic.

NO LARGE MONUMENT TO MARK LAWSON'S GRAVE

Chicago — (AP) — No pretentious monument will mark the grave in Graceland cemetery wherein on Monday morning will be buried Victor Fremont Lawson, owner and editor of the Chicago Daily News.

There will be only a marker carved with the dates of his birth and death at the head of the grave. This will be in keeping with his antipathy for a posthumous renown.

His burial arrangements, simple as he desired them, will mark his devotion to his wife in life and to her memory after her death in 1915. Her body will be disinterred and placed beside his in one of the two lots he owned in the cemetery.

The funeral services will be said at 11 o'clock Monday in the New England Congregational church, of which he was a devoted member.

URGES "OPEN" POLICY IN MINERAL DEVELOPMENT

Williamstown, Mass. — (AP) — The "open door" policy in mineral development was urged for this country by Prof. C. K. Leith of the University of Wisconsin at the last day of the Institute of Politics annual session here Friday. Closing his round table conference on mineral resources as a new environmental factor in world affairs, Dr. Leith said in part:

"Only a comparatively few centers of mineral production are capable of supplying world demands and an immense amount of exploration and development are necessary to prevent shortage. Most of the mineral regions awaiting development outside the United States are being held back by some variety of closed door. This is a common source of political friction which sometimes becomes even a cause for war."

CALL MEETING OF FARMER LEAGUE

Bachman Sounds Call to Organize in Behalf of "Young Bob" LaFollette

Now that Governor John J. Blaine has announced the date for the special senatorial election, the Farmer-Labor and Progressive League of Outagamie-co is preparing for action. At the last meeting a year ago, it adjourned subject to call of the chairman; hence, President Fred E. Bachman has issued a call for a meeting to be held in Trades and Labor hall in Appleton at 8 o'clock of the evening of Saturday, Aug. 29. It is expected that the candidacy of Robert LaFollette, Jr., will be endorsed and plans will be made for an active campaign in the county. Members from all parts of the county are to be present. The executive committee of the league will hold a meeting on Saturday evening to discuss the political situation and possibly recommend measures for the league acting a week later.

DEATHS

SCHROEDER FUNERAL

Bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Johanna Schroeder, which was held Friday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Schabo, 211 E. Story-st, were Herbert, Louis and Alfred Schabo, Eldier and Harvey Schroeder and Raymond Schultz. All are grandsons of Mrs. Schroeder.

MARY E. McMULLEN

Miss Mary E. McMullen, 77, Chilton, died at 8:15 Thursday evening at Mercy hospital at Oshkosh. She had lived in Chilton, practically all her life until about one year ago when she went to the Masonic home for aged people at Dousman, Wisconsin. She was on a two months' vacation visiting relatives and friends and was taken ill at the home of Mrs. Edward Klingbauck at Oshkosh. Miss McMullen was a member of the Eastern Star, and at one time was assistant postmaster under Col. George B. Broad, at Chilton. She also served as assistant register of deeds and was a teacher in the high school at Chilton for several years.

The survivors are one brother, Richard of Portland, Ore., and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Taylor of Minneapolis. Funeral services will be held Friday and will be conducted by the Eastern Star.

WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN

Fair tonight, possibly becoming cloudy and unsettled Saturday, with showers in extreme north portion. Rising temperature Saturday also tonight in extreme northeast portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

An extensive high pressure area is drifting eastward from the northern plains, extending Friday morning from the upper lakes to Kansas. Showers have occurred quite extensively during the past 24 hours on the advanced side of this "high," its center now being near this section. No further rains are likely here. Low pressure is developing in the far north west again and should make itself felt here by increasing cloudiness and rising temperature on Saturday.

ZUELZKE FUNERAL

Funeral services for William E. Zuelzke were held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Meyer Funeral home. Interment was in Riverside cemetery. The Rev. F. L. Schreckenbach conducted the service. Bearers were J. C. Gatchow, J. Courtney, L. Marugg, William Steinert, A. Storch and John Rock.

HELD IN PLOT

Will K. Reeme, rabid prohibitionist, arrested in Kansas City, confessed he is the author of a threatening letter received recently by Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. The letter threatened Mellon's life for alleged laxity in enforcing the prohibition amendment. Reeme says God ordered him to kill Mellon.

NEW FACILITIES FOR CAR PARKING AT SEYMOUR FAIR

Heaviest Rains Won't Interfere With Free Movement of Machines

BY W. F. WINSEY

Seymour—After making intelligent, painstaking preparation last season to entertain visitors, the Seymour Fair was greeted, night and day, with the largest crowds in its history. The reputation of the management for presenting nothing but first class exhibitions and for fidelity to advertisement, drew these crowds to witness the big show. Due to heavy rains that fell before some of the programs began and to faulty drainage of the grounds, however, the roads on the grounds and the parking place for cars bickered under the heavy traffic. A number of teams were used to release cars that had been mired under these unexpected conditions and to tow them to near-at-hand ridges. But the process was embarrassing to the owners of cars and exceedingly expediting to the management of the fair. It was not a fitting sequel to a perfect day of entertainment, but it can never happen again.

To prevent a repetition of cars being stalled on the grounds, the management of the fair has set aside ten acres to the north of the race track as a parking place for cars, built a road along the south boundary of the tract and a series of intersecting roads running north at right angles from the main road. These cross roads for rapid identification have been marked "A," "B," "C," and so forth. Between the cross roads, cars are to be parked two deep, facing the west in such a way that the front car may move to the road ahead and the rear car may do the same or back to the road in the rear. To recover his car, in this parking plan, all the driver has to do is to recall the letter of his street and the front or rear row of cars as the case may be.

Aside from this parking plan which has no superior on fair grounds, the main street and alleys of the parking field are thoroughly drained by over a mile of tile.

And so, owing to the drainage installed and car parking improvements made, the Seymour fair suddenly jumped from the muddest field on a wet day to the driest to be found among the fair grounds of the state.

GREB RESTING EASY AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Pittsburg, Pa. — (AP) — Harry Greb, middleweight boxing champion, was resting easy in the West Penn hospital Friday from injuries suffered in an automobile accident Thursday night. Physicians said his condition was favorable and that he would be able to leave the hospital within two or three weeks unless complications developed. He suffered a broken rib and minor bruises about the body.

Grebe was pinned under the steering wheel when his auto overturned after skidding on a road near here.

Menasha—Orders have been issued by police department that Main-st shall be cleared of automobiles Saturday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock as the parade and drill to be given by 2,500 visiting Shriners will not be interfered with. Final arrangements were completed Thursday evening for the big parade which will be a part of the ceremonial of Shriners.

Arrangements have been made to have the parade start at 4:30 from S. A. Cook armory. It will be headed by the Milwaukee Shriners band and Tripoli patrol. From the armory it will travel north on Washington-st to Main-st; east on Main-st to the city triangle where the several drills will be given. It will then leave the triangle for Neenah by way of the Main-st bridge as far as Naymuth-st and to the armory. The parade then will move to Neenah over Commercial-st to Wisconsin-ave after crossing back to Commercial-st and return to the armory where the banquet will be held.

The parade will be under the direction of R. T. Hill of Menasha and Ray Vandewalker of Neenah. After the banquet the bands will give an hour's concert on Nicolet-blvd after which a dance will take place in the armory.

Miss Jane Moss of Milwaukee, will be in the city to entertain the ladies and at the same time take initial steps toward organizing a ladies auxiliary of the Twin City Shriners club which recently was formed.

Hints That Tell How To Choose Food

There are easily discerned characteristics of fresh fruits and vegetables that everyone should know. These are easily remembered, easily used and worth much to the housewife who does her own marketing.

For instance onions should be selected for their silvery skins, either of a white or brownish shade, for their uniformity of size and their firm, fresh appearance. This type of onion is most attractive when cooked and most delicate in flavor.

Cauliflower when best is of full head, creamy white and heavy for its size.

Brussels sprouts should have green outside leaves, be uniform in size and, of course, free from worm holes. Turnips when fresh are neither wilted nor pithy. They are heavy for their size and of good color.

Celery can be distinguished by its crisp white stalks and fresh, bleached leaves. In serving celery, be sure it is scrupulously clean. Celery is grown under conditions that make this important and necessary.

Fresh spinach has tender, crisp leaves and stems that snap.

Head lettuce when fresh is heavy and firm, with no signs of brown on the outer leaves.

Cranberries should be firm and bright. Not overripe, however, and should be kept in a cool, dry atmosphere until used.

Grapefruit and oranges, uniform in size, with smooth, thin skins and small pores, are the choice ones.

And never let a ruddy, shining skin deceive you into buying tasteless, pithy apples. These should be heavy in weight, as well as attractive in appearance.

Bananas are picked when green and ripen during shipment. In choosing this fruit one is apt to select bananas not ripe enough because of their fresh appearance. Bananas are really at their best when they begin to show a tinge of brown along the seams of the skin and yet one must be sure that the stem end is still solid and not beginning to soften.

It is poor economy to save money by buying fruit and vegetables that are not up to standard.

PEGGY SUGGESTS THAT YOU EAT ORANGES TO KEEP DOCTOR AWAY

BY PEGGY GALLIMORE
Of George White's "Scandals."

I'm from California, the land of oranges and lemons, and it may be impulses of patriotism for my native state that makes me believe these two fruits are the most beautifying ones grown in any land.

Instead of coffee in the morning, I have a mixed drink composed of the juice of two oranges and one lemon and enough chopped ice to make it musical in the glass.

When their people indulge in afternoon tea, I have another glass of orange juice, tricked out with a sprig of mint and a red cherry or so. It is just as invigorating as tea and much better for the complexion.

I always have oranges in my dressing room at the theater, and eat them in preference to candy or sandwiches when I feel it is long wait until the next meal.

The person who started that slogan about the apple a day keeping the doctor away had never met the orange or I feel sure he would have given the honorable mention to the orange.

"Would you forgive me and take me in your arms with the same fervor as before, Jack, if the circumstances were reversed? Honestly, I don't want to talk much about it. I have said all I had to say in my letters. I think I shall be much more unhappy than you if what you say to me is true."

"Leslie, Leslie, is it possible that you don't believe me?"

"I don't know. I don't know whether I believe you or not. I only know that I am not going to put myself in a position of absolute belief in you ever again. Because so many times I have found that what I have believed was not true, that I have decided never to allow you to hurt me like that again."

"You seem to think you would be able to take up your part of our life together just where we left off. I think, Jack, that is because nothing that I have done has shaken your belief in me. Nothing that I have done has hurt you deeply enough to make even a scratch upon your mind. Let alone your heart. Honestly, I don't understand. Do all men think that they can go away and forget their wives utterly and come back to them as you say, begin all over again? Does no man give a woman any feeling at all?"

"You do not seem to sense the importance of my statement when I tell you that something has gone out of me that I can not get back and I think perhaps that that is what hurts me most of all. The sight of you does not thrill me any more. I felt as you came through the door that I would shudder at your caress, because with it would come the thought that the same caress had been given to another in the self-same way."

"Surely, you do not believe that, Leslie. You know I have never felt the same urge for any other woman."

"No, I don't know that. I haven't been able to go into the matter deeply enough and even if I did try to find out, unfortunately I can never know, and whether the urge was greater or less, it amounted to the same thing."

Labels Are Of Value On Fruit Cans

Madison—Let the label be the judge on home canned fruits.

Blackberries have the knack of looking like blueberries, watermelon pickles like preserved citron, and catsup like strained tomatoes after they have once found a place on the fruit shelves in a dimly lighted cellar in unlabeled fruit jars. In spite of all good guessing, mistakes will occur. According to Miss Bernice Dodge, home management authority at the University of Wisconsin, the best and surest method is to label the jars before putting them in the cellar. Use large labels, and print with large letters, so they can be read easily.

Labels make it possible to tell the difference between dill, sweet and sour pickles, between first and second extraction jellies, and between fruits having a thin sirup, fruits having a heavier sirup, and those canned without sugar.

New methods of canning used on certain sorts of food may be conveniently recorded on the label. The recipe is there when the food is used and may be saved or discarded as its worth it determined. Dates on labels make it easier to keep tab on the older jars which need to be used. It is interesting also to note on the label the cost of the material in the jar.

If time is scarce, it is not necessary to label such foods as string beans, pears and peaches—all of which may be identified without much difficulty. But a few minutes spent at canning time in labeling jars which may be confused easily are well worth the effort and will save many unsuccessful guesses next winter.

Household Hints

ECONOMY

Keep a supply of holders on hand where you can get at them easily. Do this to save your dish towels.

LOSE FLAVOR

Never leave boxes of tea, coffee or spices open to the air they deteriorate rapidly in quality.

EXPENSIVE

Tin cooking utensils are much less economical than enamel, agate or aluminum because they wear so poorly.

AVOID EVAPORATION

Keep ammonia, gasoline and other volatile substances tightly corked to avoid evaporation.

CONSERVE SOAP

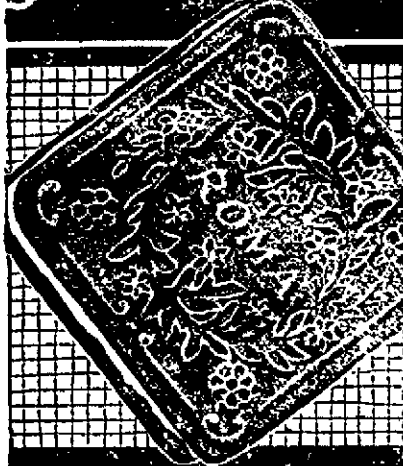

If you want to save soap, do not let it lie in a wet dish or in the laundry water. Keep it in a dry place.

Adventures Of The Twins

THE STORY TELLER MAN

The Fairy Queen appeared to Nancy and Nick, the Twins, as they were playing in the meadow one day. The wild flowers were just out, and Nancy was just about to pick a May apple blossom, when her eyes fell upon the dainty little lady.

"Oh, dear! Excuse me!" she cried, pulling her hand away. "I didn't know you were here."

The Fairy Queen laughed. "It looked like rain," said she, "and I stopped under this May-apple leaf for shelter. It looks so much like an umbrella."

"Is this part of Fairyland?" asked Nick.

"Certainly," answered the Fairy Queen. "Wherever you see flowers it is always Fairyland. I always come this way when I have a journey to make. It is so convenient to have all these umbrellas handy in case of a shower."

"Are you on a journey?" asked Nancy.

"Yes, I was coming to see you," the Fairy Queen answered with a little laugh.

"Us!" cried the Twins in surprise. "Yes, you!" nodded Her Royal Highness. "I overheard you say that you liked flowers better than anything in the world, and stories next, is that true?"

"Yes, it is," answered the children quickly. "Did you hear us talking about it?"

"Yes, and the funny part of it is, that just when I happened to hear you talking about it, I was reading a letter from the Story Teller Man, saying that he had learned a lot of new stories," said the Fairy Queen.

"The Story Teller Man!" said Nick. "Where does he live?"

"In another part of Fairyland," said the Fairy Queen. "In one of my Nine Hundred and Ninety-Nine Kingdoms. He has a funny little mouse with all sorts of interesting things in it. The widows are made of barley sugar from the witch's house, the roof is made of precious stones brought back by Sinbad the Sailor, the walls are of boards that Strong Arm saved from the Giant's house when he knocked it over, the trees are from the garden of the Sleeping Princess, the fountain is the one in which the Frog Prince lived when he rescued the golden ball, and—

—but there! Wouldn't you like to see for yourselves? Here are the magic green shoes that can take you anywhere."

"Put them on," said the Fairy Queen, "and you will find yourself at the Story Teller's house. He is waiting for you."

The Twins scrambled out of their own shoes into the others without another word. Then they turned to thank the Fairy Queen for her kindness and to say "good-bye."

But lo and behold! The May apple patch was gone, the woods and meadow were gone—and gone was the Fairy Queen!

Instead, there stood a queer house

MUCH PUREBRED LIVESTOCK SOLD FOR USE AS BEEF

Bureau of Animal Industry Reports Pedigreed Stock Being Butchered

Washington, D. C.—Much of the purebred livestock of the country is finding its way to the dinner table, instead of being kept on farms for breeding purposes only, the bureau of animal industry has found in a survey which reached 653 farmers in 45 states. Answers to questionnaires sent out by the bureau developed also that the dairy industry is drawing many purebred cattle.

Analysis of the replies, the bureau announced, has shown that about 62 per cent of purebred livestock is marketed directly for meat purposes, swine being slaughtered at the rate of 75.1 per cent; sheep 62.6 per cent and cattle 41.8 per cent.

The consensus of opinion of the farmers was that purebred meat animals cost slightly less than scrubs to raise to maturity, while dairy cattle cost slightly more. Purebred animals were declared much more profitable to raise than scrubs, and somewhat more so than graded stock, the degree depending on the proportion of pure blood possessed by the grades.

About 96 per cent of the farmers who had given the use of purebred sires a trial were found to adhere to the general principle of using them for all classes of stock. Improvement of the quality of purebred livestock by rigid culling and by selling only worthy animals for breeding purposes was used by a number of farmers.

The bureau learned that only one-half of the purebred animals in the country eligible to registration are actually registered. Principal reasons given for not registering animals were intention to sell for slaughter, poor individuality, little demand for registration papers when stock is sold, and carelessness in attending to registration.

The questionnaires produced a virtually unanimous opinion that purebred livestock was more profitable than grade or scrub animals, with well-bred grades a close second. A Nebraska stockman declared he had found that purebreds "are of more uniform type, feed out better and more quickly and therefore put on more gain with the same or less feed and in less time." Others told of high prices, ready sale on slow market days, ability to fatten on grass with a minimum of grain feed and finishing for profitable early markets.

The importance of color as a certification that cattle are of the meat breeds was emphasized by a western stockman. "Whiteface, roan, roan, and black cattle," he said, "always attract the buyers, but a brindle, yellow, or black and white spotted steer, even of good conformation, finds a less ready sale. The buyers know from experience that such stock will not dress out so well."

PRODUCERS DRAW HANDSOME GAINS FROM OLD PLAYS

Revivals in Theatrical World of London Come in With Rush

By Associated Press
London—Revival in the theatrical world of London came in with a rush early last spring and held the stages of various houses until they were pushed into the discard late in the season, when a number of brand new plays appeared from the other side of the Atlantic. In the eyes of theatrical managers, revivals have been the order of the day for some months for a number of reasons. There has been a dearth of new plays, operettas and other pieces to select from, over the managers, but in bringing old favorites to life again it has been found that they can always be counted upon to take fairly well with the theatre-going public, and in addition save little fortunes so far as royalties are concerned. They also spare the managers' pocketbooks in many, many other ways.

Revivals this year, in one case a manager went back 150 years for his material, might be called stop-gap pieces and were brought out to fill certain houses which otherwise would stand idle while new pieces were in the course of preparation. It is nearly always safer to put on a favorite of some year ago, say the London managers, especially where a play is desired for a short run, than it is to attempt to introduce a new piece, drama, operetta or otherwise.

"The Merry Widow" early in the season started the ball rolling, so far as revivals were concerned, and within a few weeks was being whistled over all the town, just as it was 16 years ago when brought here from Vienna. Then came "The Dollar Princess," which had its first performance here in 1909 when it ran for 428 nights.

"Sumurun," which, to some extent, set the fashion which in after years brought forth the Eastern pagentry and magnificence of such productions as "Chu Chin Chow," was another revival, this having its premiere here some 14 years ago. "Chu Chin Chow" is perhaps the most successful play ever produced in London, having run continually at His Majesty's Theatre for more than five years, and since has been playing the provinces and the London suburbs without a let up. "Charley's Aunt" and "It Pays to Advertise" are other successes which still hold the stage in the suburbs and boroughs of the English metropolis. But of the dives into the past to re-

NEW TEACHER

Here is Raleigh Valentine Reese, who has been chosen to succeed John T. Scopes as a high school teacher at Dayton, Tenn. It's a safe bet that he is a fundamentalist and won't mention monkeys during the coming school year.

live old favorites by far the most successful play this season has been "The Ware Case," which drew splendid houses for months. A list of the others includes "Old Heidelberg," "A Kiss for Cinderella," and "The Thief." And then too, there is Sheridan's "The Rivals," which was first produced in London at the Covent Garden Theatre in 1775.

As a whole London appears to take kindly to all the revivals of other years, for a short time, at least.

UMBRELLA MARKET

Washington—Umbrellas have grown to be an important item in the export business to East Africa where they are used by natives for protection against the sun and rains. More than half the umbrellas imported come from Great Britain.

TRACTORS LEAD

Washington—American exports of agricultural implements during the 11 months ending with May, 1925, amounted to $45,344,503, as compared with $56,182,801 for the same period of a year ago. Wheel tractors comprise the largest item. Plows and harvesters and binders were the second and third largest items, respectively.

Cookies with Peaches and Cream

No need to go further. If you like peaches and cream and cookies you can complete the picture for yourself. Concerning the cookies, why depend entirely upon home baking, when your grocer can supply such an interesting and appetizing variety of exceedingly good cookies? Include a pound or two in your next order.

Man Who Said "History Is Bunk" Contributes to Des-pised Science

By Associated Press

Detroit—As the more active days of his career respond to the inexorable toll of years, Henry Ford is making a new claim to distinction and in a new field—history. The man who has been quoted as saying "history is bunk" is quietly gathering from all parts of America what is regarded by historians as one of the greatest collections of vehicles in existence.

The collection is just one of several that slowly are being formed at his Dearborn, Mich., property.

Although inaugurated primarily as a collection of physical objects illustrating the origin and progressive evolution of transportation facilities, the collection now has overlapped that limitation and has come to include more or less completed lines of specimens illustrating the progress of mechanical invention and achievement in almost every department of human interest.

In the collection may be found a one-horse chaise "that was built in such a logical way it ran for a hundred years and a day." There is fine old rig of the colonial period and a calash (or caleche) which was thought very stylish by the Pilgrims. Then there is an old mail coach of the type used for passengers, baggage and mail, with provisions for outside passengers on top.

There is the Conestoga wagon, or prairie schooner, a genuine American product that followed the first mountain roads out of the eastern states, threaded the vast plains, crossed the Rockies and brought the first settlers to Oregon and California. The Concord coach, which was regarded as the last word in transportation and was capable of 16 miles an hour, also is represented, as also is the Pennsylvania buckboard, sometimes called the "Adam and Eve Wagon," because it was built for two.

Other exhibits are the common buckboard, which was the first of the American light spring wagons; the phaeton, regarded late in the eighteenth century as the apex of style, the victoria, the rockaway with its small, enclosed body, the American buggy often called the "queen" of the horse-drawn passenger vehicles, and an old coupe-siege of the early statehood period.

A twohorse "sociable" in the collection was considered the top of the list of modern carriages in Civil War days. There also is an American racing sulky and several specimens of ancient and modern fire fighting apparatus. A curiosity is the old Dearborn band wagon, with its spring seats placed on an ordinary wagon box. It was in this wagon that Henry Ford, an uncle of the automobile manufacturer, played the fife in a musical organization which also included a flutist, one snare drum and one bass drum player and an alternate bass drummer. The collection also include the first Ford automobile, with its four high, solid-rubber tired, steel-spoked wheels, its dashboard, kerosene headlight, steering rod and conspicuous flywheel of the exposed motor. This vehicle was built in 1894.

HE PUTS 'EM TO SLEEP

An inventor in Cheshire, Eng., has produced a machine which is said to be a sure sleep producer. The machine throws a series of twelve different colored light rays across the insomniac victim's face, putting him to sleep in 15 minutes, the inventor claims.

NOT BARNYARD PET

A large rooster, which formerly walked Lansing, Mich., streets at will, has been ordered enclosed. The rooster attacked Miss Lela Hanthorn, and several men were needed to subdue the bird.

The FLAPPER WIFE

By Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Footfalls on the stairs—Ranghild to tell her that dinner was ready. "Will you fix a tray for Mr. Gregory and bring it up to him?" she asked calmly, although she was sure Ranghild had seen her eavesdropping at Dick's door. "And there may be a guest for supper, too. Wait a minute and I'll let you know. . . . She opened the door of Dick's room and went in.

Miss Briggs had stopped talking. And she and Dick fixed their eyes on Gloria. She remembered the old verse that runs:

"Two's a company,
"Three's a crowd,"

But she smiled at Miss Briggs and asked how Dick had behaved himself all afternoon.

"Wonderfully well," Miss Briggs answered. "He slept for more than an hour."

"She read me to sleep," said Dick. "She has a voice that's as soothing as rain on a roof."

Miss Briggs blushed with pleasure. "Oh, dear," thought Gloria, "I wonder if Dick knows how the poor thing adores him?"

Aloud she said, "Our dinner's ready, Miss Briggs. Will you come downstairs and eat with me?"

Gloria saw that Miss Briggs was could, Gloria went on. . . .

"And then, perhaps, you'll read Dick to sleep again afterward?" she asked. "He has a hard time getting to sleep lately. And Mrs. O'Hara wants to stop giving him sleeping powders."

"Very well, I'll stay," Miss Briggs agreed stiffly.

But she turned on Dick a look of exaltation, as if she were telling him there was nothing she wouldn't do for him. . . .

Gloria caught the look as she went out into the hall to tell Ranghild to use the best napkins and to put on the salad forks. Then she and Miss Briggs went downstairs.

"Where can I put these?" Dick's secretary asked as they went into the dinner room. She held up a tight package of bills and letters, rolled together by a rubber band.

Gloria took them from her and laid them on the sideboard. "Dick says you pay all my bills for him. I'm afraid you think I'm awfully extravagant," she said amiably.

Miss Briggs smiled her secret, tight-lipped smile. "It's not part of my job to think awfully extravagant," she said primly. "I'm just a bookkeeper."

"I see," Gloria answered. "By the way, I'm getting a little surprise ready for Dick. . . . All winter long he's been planning a rose garden and vegetable garden for the back yard. Of course, he's too sick to attend to it, and I thought I'd go ahead with it myself."

After the meal was over, she went upstairs and read Dick to sleep.

Down in the living room Gloria sat, listening to the low droning sound of her voice.

"She's the kind of woman Dick should have had for a wife," she said to herself. "If he'd had any sense he'd have married her years ago."

She drove Miss Briggs home. On the way back she went into a drug store and telephoned Stanley Way, burn.

"I'll have that money for you to-morrow," Stan," she said. "Meet me at two o'clock at the usual place."

The first thing Gloria did the next morning was to telephone Henry Moss, the gardener, who had sold Dick the dwarf evergreens that circled the house.

She told him just how she wanted the garden in the back-yard laid out. "And send your bill to me, not to Mr. Gregory," she added. "I'm fixing up the yard as a birthday present for him."

"I certainly am getting to be an artist at telling white lies," she remarked to herself on her way downtown to Dick's office. "All I hope is that I can keep track of the fibs I've told different people."

Miss Briggs had the money ready for her. Gloria counted it. . . . ten $20 bills in a white envelope.

Gloria wished she could keep the money for herself. There was a red dress in one of the stores that she would love to have; a cunning thing with a bell-shaped bodice.

Stan was waiting for her on their street corner. "Lord, but I hate to take this," he said, as he slipped the envelope of bills into his pocket. "But it's only a loan. I'll return it to you inside of three or four weeks."

"Yes, I'm afraid you'll have to, unless you want me to lose my happy home," Gloria answered frankly. "I got the money from Dick's secretary. And I told her I wanted it for some gardening that I'm having done. Si you see, I'll really have to have the money, so I can pay the bill when it comes in on the first of the month."

"Don't worry, Russet, you'll get it," Wayburn answered. There was more than shade of sarcasm in his voice.

He took a cheap nickle watch from his pocket and looked at it. "I made an appointment with the tailor this morning," he said. "And I'm ten minutes late, now. Too bad we couldn't have spent the afternoon together. Meet me to-morrow, will you? We'll go for a hike, eh, what?"

WALSH SHOOT'S GOOD SCORE IN OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Appleton Golf Star Gets 73 In First Qualifying Round In Western Tourney

Butte des Morts Man's Work Probably Will Qualify Him for Final 36 Holes Saturday

Frank Walsh, pro at the Butte des Morts golf club, turned in a nice card for the first qualifying round of the western open golf championship at Youngstown, O., Thursday, when he went around in 38-73. Playing golf of this standard on Friday would get the local golfer into the 64 qualifiers who will play the thirty-six holes for the title on Saturday. Francis Gallet, Milwaukee, lead state golfers with 33-70 and J. M. Hunter, Milwaukee, finished a stroke behind Walsh with 40-74. Harry Dettloff, Oshkosh, tied the local man with 36-73. A score of 67 was low and another golfer had a 69, but all of the others had 70 or over with a dozen 70's and 22's in the field.

Youngstown, O. — More than 200 golfers continued play Friday in the second elimination round of the Western Open Golf championship at the Youngstown Country club where 70 players Thursday scored 75 or better indicating that these contestants would likely be the only ones able to survive for the final 36 holes on Saturday.

At the head of the list when Friday's round began was Larry Nabholz of Cleveland who had a wonderful 67 to his record. Only two strokes behind the leader were Donald Carrick, 18 year old Canadian amateur champion, and Emmett French, professor of the local club, and there were 7 players with scores of 70.

The leading amateur was Joe Wells of East Liverpool, O., who had par 71. There were many scores of 72, including H. C. Hagerbald of Bristol, Conn.; Peter Henry of Philadelphia; Harry Hampton of Memphis; Leo Diegel of New York, Canadian open champion, and James Foulis of Chicago.

NO LOST BALLS ON THIS GOLF COURSE

New Idea Worked Successfully on New Jersey Links Has Head Caddy to Trace Balls

Imagine a golf course where a lost ball is as rare as the proverbial hen's teeth, the uncoveted subway car, the right telephone number, etc. As the result of a new service inaugurated among the caddies the members of the Maplewood Country club at Maplewood, N. J., gleefully announced that the ratio of lost balls has been reduced almost to "null" since the new "foreman caddy" arrangement was started in June.

Here is the system: So far as possible the caddy master appoints a foreman who is chosen from the best of the class. He is responsible for the work of the other caddies. At every hole there are at least two fore-caddies waiting at points where balls are apt to be lost. Each boy is required to mark every ball played into trouble, and if the rubber core is not found at once the boys go immediately to the spot marked. With several converging lines of location without loss of time.

The caddy whose player is on the green first takes the pin. The second boy secures from the other two caddies the clubs which will be used on the next tee, and these two boys then proceed immediately as fore-caddies on the next fairway. At all times when balls are played to blind points two boys must be sent forward.

As every golfer benefits by the help of all the caddies, every player

PIRATES HOLD MOST HONORS IN OLD LOOP

Pittsburg — Besides topping the National League clubs in the Pirates also are out in front in several departments of play. For instance, they lead in club batting with a mark of .305, one ahead of the Phillies. In Cuyler they boast the premier run-getter of both circuits; the same player also ranks high in triples, while Max Carey, another Pittsburgh entry, is showing the way in doubles and base-stealing.

All in all, the McKechnie crew has quite a corner on the club and individual honors.

BANKERS TO PLAY LEGION CREW IN INTERLOOP TILTS

Lark Pennant-Winners Challenged to 3 Games by Twilight Loop Contenders

The Banker squad, one of the strongest teams in the Twilight loop, and a contender for top honors, has challenged the Legion team, Lark loop title-holders, to a series of three post-league games to be played as soon as convenient at Jones park. The Bankers have a hard crew to beat and play a good game so that the series should bring out some real ball.

The Legion crew is playing a three-game series with the Lions at present with the score standing 1-0 for Starnard's crew. After this is completed the Bankers will be taken on. The first game between the two crews probably will be Thursday afternoon. Plenty of interest is being created by the challenge as fans will have a chance to compare leading outfits in both loops. Buboltz and Sauer, the premier catcher of the Twilight loop, form the Bank battery and such stars as McKenzie, Gerhart and Tock also play with the twilight leaguers. The Legion will not only have to take two out of three games but also defend its laurels of not losing a game this year, a somewhat harder task against the fighting Bankers.

APPLETON SQUAD HITS LOOP HEADS AT CHEESE CITY

Crowe and Flood, Leading Hurlers of Loop, Clash in Plymouth-Papermaker Tilt

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Fond du Lac at Campbellsport.
Oshkosh at Chilton.
APPLETON AT PLYMOUTH.

When the Appleton ball club of the Eastern Wisconsin loop lines up against the league-leading Plymouth crew at the Cheese city Sunday the Papermakers will have a double incentive for a win. The locals are in third place only a game behind the speedy Fondy crew and a victory Sunday would give them an even shake at the second position as well as a chance to shake off Oshkosh, which is tied with Appleton in the standings. A win over the Cheese-makers also will tighten the loop race considerably with Plymouth hitting the harder part of its schedule near the end, thus giving at least three other crews a chance at the bunting.

Oshkosh licked the leaders last week just after losing to Appleton and Manager Batz's philosophy is, "If Oshkosh did it, why can't we?" However, the local team will take the field with a crippled lineup and one-half of its speedy infield of the last few weeks, the group that lead the league in fielding and double plays, on the shelf. A loss for Plymouth would bring that crew down to a two or three game lead, depending on Fondy's showing, and while this seems an awful handicap to make up in the few remaining weeks with only Sunday ball, Plymouth's schedule is the hardest of the loop. The Cheese-makers meet such teams as Oshkosh, their recent conqueror and Appleton away from home and Campbellsport, always dangerous, at Plymouth, so that anything may happen if they let down at all.

Two of the loop's best hurlers, Crowe and Flood, are scheduled to meet on the mound Sunday with Last behind the pan for Appleton and Pock handling Flood's shoots. Wangemann, Wilke and Peebles, members of the Sheboygan Fox River Valley league crew last year will play with the Cheese-makers as does Elliot, star all-arounder with the loop. Elliot forced the first base with a single, giving Plymouth two crack twirlers. His ability to clout the pill keeps him on first most of the time, however.

Two newcomers will appear in the papermaker infield. "Spaw" Pocan, Kimberly star, who has been going great guns down south with Stormy Kromer's crew, will fill in at Cully Schultz old job at third base, while showed up well in his first game on at shortstop. The rest of the lineup will be practically the same that took the field against Campbellsport Sunday. Sonny Tornow will be at second and Al Gosha at third. Outfielders will be Manager Batz, H. Tornow, and Chris Klundt. Ted Van Wyck and "Cave" Radtke will be in reserve.

GOLF As Champions Play It

Best for Putting the CLEEK
IS STRAIGHT FACED, and therefore it is easier to time easier to hit ball at right angles with hole.

What shape, size and design of putter is best for the average player? Why?

BY CYRIL WALKER
National Open Champion, 1924
I recommend a putting cleek which is a straight faced putter. I find it much easier for the average golfer because he can line up his putts easier without being bothered with any twisted necked or wry necked affairs. It is easier for them to get at right angles to the hole, which makes putting simpler.

TARPON CATCHING BIG JOB

SIG HAUGDAHL AND HIS PRIZE CATCH

Sig Haugdahl has had many a tough battle trying to nose out rival auto drivers on the racing ovals but never in his career has he experienced such a fight as put up by this 116-pound tarpon off the Dayton, Fla., coast recently.

Sig parried with the monster for over an hour before gaining the verdict and then only after his 30-foot boat had been towed three miles to sea by the fighting victim.

Sig further states that the experience gave him some new ideas to increase his speed by lessening wind resistance, the body line of the tarpon being adaptable to streamline of racing car.

Marquette Faces Strong Grid Card With 17 Vets

Milwaukee — Football prospects shape up excellently at Marquette university at the present time and indications are now that 80 brawny pairs of legs and arms will line up for action when Coach Frank J. Murray calls the first roll at the opening of the fall training camp on the island at Lake Meunah, Wis., 29 miles from Milwaukee, Sept. 8, the day after Labor day.

Only three of last season's twenty lettermen were lost through graduation, leaving Coach Murray and his assistants a wealth of material with principal worry now is the ineligibility bugaboo as it is understood that three or four of his men will have conditions to work off before they can enter varsity play. The oncoming sophomore material is excellent. Lettermen or veteran second stringers will return for every position on the team. From end to end, from center to backfield Marquette will have a veteran team, although there is a strong possibility of two or three sophomores breaking in this year. The ends include Ex-Capt. La Vern Dilweg, an All-American and All-Western, and Lester Gerlach, both of Milwaukee; John Fahay, St. Paul, Minn., and Dick Flaherty, Spokane, Wash. Among the tackles are Capt.-elect Frank Lane, Merrill, Hackett Emory, Milwaukee. Veteran guards are Clifford Kampine, Marinette; John L. Sullivan, La Crosse; Peter Cartwright, Andrew Hornak and Loren Tiefenthaler, Milwaukee. Backfield material also is strong with many veterans in the fold. Murray-trained quarter backs are Donald Curtin, Bob Demoling and Eugene Goggins, all of Milwaukee, while the halfbacks include: Joe Valler, Irving Leichtfuss and James King, Milwaukee; George Skemp, La Crosse; and Francis McCormick, Antigo. The fullbacks are Richard Badger, Green Bay; Johnnie Kub and Ward Moran, LaCrosse.

Coach Murray smiles as he mentions graduates from last year's freshman squad the Hilltop's first. Many of these youngsters will get an early trial this year and among those expected to deliver are Cornelius Dunn, brother of the famous "Red" Dunn, Milwaukee, quarter or end; Leo Ryan, Milwaukee, center; Joe Leary, Janesville; Leonard Kampine, Marinette, fullbacks; Loren Costello, Chicago, tackle; Roy Buck, Wausau, center, and others.

THE SCHEDULE

The Marquette schedule follows: Sept. 26, Loyola University (Chicago) in Milwaukee; Oct. 3, St. Mary's college (Winona, Minn.) in Milwaukee; Oct. 10, the Navy at Annapolis, Md.; Oct. 17, open; Oct. 24, Lombard college in Milwaukee; Oct. 31, Creighton university (Omaha) in Milwaukee; Nov. 7, Kansas Aggies in Milwaukee; Nov. 14, South Dakota state in Milwaukee; Nov. 21, University of North Dakota in Milwaukee; Nov. 26 (Thanksgiving) Mercer university (Macon, Ga.) in Milwaukee.

APPLETON GOLF SQUAD INVADES GREEN BAY LINKS

Riverviews, With Ken Dickinson Back, Attempt to Even Score With Bay Rivals

Strengthened by the presence of Ken Dickinson, 1925 Wisconsin State amateur champion, 25 golfers from the Riverview country club will invade Green Bay, determined to set several new records in a match with the Fox River club golfers. The matches will be played on Saturday.

Perhaps the biggest record the local crew will try for will be to beat the Bay golfers on their home course, a stunt that never has been done. All of the Appleton golfers are in good condition and have been shooting fine golf of late, so local golf fans are confident that with any breaks the Riverview men have a great chance to break Green Bay's at-home win streak. This confidence is greatly strengthened by the fact that Dickinson, fresh from the state title match, is once more in the local harness. Green Bay golfers beat Appleton in this city last month by a few points with Ken out of the play, and the local boys are out to turn the tables with a vengeance. H. L. Davis is captain of the Appleton team for the tourney.

SENATORS BACK ON TOP OF HEAP

Macks Lose 3rd Straight to Browns as Bucks Take 12-Inning Battle from Indians

New York—(AP) — Pennsylvania's hopes for exclusive rights to the world series were less bright Friday. The Philadelphia Athletics were back in second place in the American League and Pittsburgh, leading the National League, had a desperate and formidable Giant to contend with in the first two games of a five game struggle at the Polo Grounds.

A twelve-inning mound duel won by Washington, 1 to 0, carried the World's Champions back into the American League leadership by a full game Thursday as the Mackmen edged the Pirates, 1 to 0, in a slugfest at the Browns. To 6, The reverse dropped Philadelphia from the peak for the first time in slightly more than a month.

FLUKE HOMER COUNTS

In spite of the fact that they lost a hardfought game to the Cubs, Thursday, 5-3, while the Pirates were regaining their three game advantage as the result of a futility home run by Cuyler, 2 to 1, the New York Giants Friday were loaded with trouble for the National League leaders.

Lucky homers decided both games in which the leading National League contenders figured. In the case of the Giants an inoffensive looking roller from the bat of Heathcote and a fly by Jahn which fell for a double added in the downward of the champions, while Cuyler's homer against Brooklyn was a mere single which took an unexpected hop over Brown's head in the outfield and rolled to the fence.

REDS TAKE THIRD

Cincinnati bombarded the Phillies with 15 hits to win three games out of four. The score was 5 to 4. The Braves after long confinement in the cellar closed by inflicting a fourth straight defeat 6-3 on the Cardinals as a result of uncatchable pitching by Barnes.

The Red Sox dropped the fourth straight to the White Sox. Fifteen hits brought Chicago 11 runs to 7 for the Boston club.

BRITISH GIRL BEATS RYAN IN TENNIS MEET

Forest Hills, N. Y.—(AP)—Its complexion changed by the elimination of Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California, who had been regarded as the foremost title contender, the battle for the national women's tennis championships reached the semifinals Friday with one British player threatening in each event.

The foreign menace in singles, looms unexpectedly as a dangerous factor in Miss Kathleen McKane, slim ranking star of Britain, who continued her dazzling march Thursday by besting Miss Ryan in three sets.

On the strength of her play so far, Miss McKane was favored to take the measure Friday of Mrs. Molla M. Mallory, seven times American champion. If she does it will bring the British girl into the finals where, barring the most sensational kind of upset, she will face the young defending champion, Miss Helen Wills.

Miss Wills, who dropped a set before scoring her second straight victory over Miss Joan Fry, 19 year old English girl, Thursday was bracketed in the other semi-final match Friday afternoon with Miss Eleanor Goss, New York.

Erv Gerber To Handle 4th Annual Amateur Swim Meet At Janesville On Sept. 7

Any Amateur Eligible; Entrance Blanks Can Be Secured at Post-Crescent Office

Janesville—E. C. Gerber, swimming instructor at the Madison Y. M. C. A., has been selected to referee the fourth annual state Y. M. C. A. amateur swimming championships to be held in Rock river here on Labor day.

Gerber is rated as an all around athlete and was formerly connected with the La Crosse Y. M. C. A. as swimming instructor. He was prominent in sports at the University of Wisconsin.

All swimmers entering the water marathon will be examined by Dr. W. I. Clark, Janesville, as to their physical fitness to compete. The marathon is a mile event. To provide safety to swimmers men in boats will trail the contestants.

Any amateur in the state, whether attached to any organization or independent is entitled to enter the meet which is in charge of George Clapp and A. E. Bergman of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. Dahms, Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. swimming instructor.

The complete list of events follows: Seniors—Third annual Y. M. C. A. mile river marathon; 100 yards swim; 100 yards back stroke; 100 yards breast stroke; plunge for distance; fancy diving off 10-foot board. Seniors must be over 17 years.

Juniors—100 yard swim, 50 yards swim, 50 yards breast stroke, plunge for distance, fancy diving off low board. Juniors must be 17 years and under.

The state meet was held in Janesville two years ago, when it drew 57 entries from 10 different cities.

Silver loving cups will be awarded for the first five places in the marathon swim and bronze medals will be awarded to all contestants finishing in 25 minutes, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director of the "Y." The record time is 24 minutes, 25 seconds. Silver medals will be awarded to winners of first place in all other events and ribbons to second, third and fourth place winners. All marathon swimmers must report for physical examination and the start at 9 o'clock in the morning at Goose Island swimming beach where the finish of the marathon and dashes takes place. Entries close Saturday, Sept. 5 at 10 a. m. Entry fee is 50 cents for the marathon and 25 cents for other events. In the absence of Mr. Jensen from the city Appleton swimmers can secure entrance blanks at the editorial rooms of the Post-Crescent.

STATE SWIM TOURNEY TO BE HELD AUG. 23

Milwaukee — State aquatic championship sports will get under way in a tournament here Aug. 23. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded place winners in the senior swimming and canoe events; a gold medal to the highest individual point winner in the junior class and ribbons to the cadet and junior event winners.

Managers of the meet assert it has created much interest in the state. Seventeen events are listed in the senior, junior and cadet classes. Winners in senior and cadet classes will be matched in a canoe paddling event.

In order to enter competition, the applicant must be a registered member of the state aquatic association. Entries in the junior swimming and diving classes are limited. The meet is being held under the auspices of the School Board Extension Division.

COOLIDGE MEN PUSH PUBLIC BUILDING BILL

hostility of members of congress every one of whom would naturally be expected to make a plea for construction in his district. The Democrats, moreover, it will demand a voice in selection of buildings. They can hold up legislation by filibuster and otherwise. The Democrats blocked action in the Senate last time.

The suggestion has been made that a bi-partisan commission composed equally of Democrats and Republicans shall listen to all requests for enlargement of existing buildings or construction of new buildings and render its decision on testimony taken. Such a commission would be empowered to recommend the points at which the funds should be spent. Whether a proposal of this kind will find favor is hard to say but it is certain to command more support than the plan at the last session of congress to have two members of the cabinet—the Secretary of the Treasury and Postmaster General—make the selections. Political opposition to the proposal because the Democrats feared the southern districts would not receive consideration. The administration realizes it will have to devise some compromise to win over the Democrats if a public buildings measure is to be passed by both houses. The subject is pertinent now because in figuring out the expenditures for next year the administration must take public buildings into account. The significant fact is that the president has decided to include the item and will urge it upon congress in his next message.

FRIEND OF PHILLIP OPPOSED TO WILCOX

Milwaukee—(P)—Lawrence C. Whitte, former speaker of the Wisconsin assembly and private secretary to Governor Philipp during the governor's last term, Friday declared that he does not "see how any person who reveres the memory of the late Governor Philipp can support the candidacy of Roy P. Wilcox for United States senator."

Mr. Whitte is managing the business properties of Governor Philip in Milwaukee. "The friends of Governor Philipp can never forget what transpired at the platform convention in 1915 when Mr. Wilcox arrogantly insulted the war governor of Wisconsin," said Mr. Whitte. "No man ever made greater sacrifices and no man took a greater second than did Governor Philipp. When Senator Wilcox endeavored to place a stigma on that record he did a thing that was never forgotten by the governor to his dying day and will never be forgotten by the governor's friends who survive him. I do not see how any person who reveres the memory of E. L. Philipp can support the candidacy of Roy P. Wilcox for United States senator."

REAL ESTATE BOARD DENIES LICENSES TO 6

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers' board announced Friday that it had issued orders denying real estate broker's licenses to Howard Whitte and Eddie Froebel of Navarino, Shawano-co, who desired a partnership license; Frank Demas, Elkhorn, Walworth-co, who desires to sell sub-division real estate of a small lake in southern Wisconsin; August Meyer, Random Lake, Sheboygan-co; Otto H. Prochnow, Almond, Portage-co, and August W. Ihlenfeldt, Loyal, Clark-co.

Norman Kohl and Amos Kohl have returned from a short visit at the Wisconsin Dells.

ANNOUNCE NEW PLAN TO REPAY FARM LOANS

Madison—The inauguration of an amortization plan for the repayment of farm loans over a long period of years was announced Friday by the annuity board of the Wisconsin state teachers' retirement system.

The plan is similar to that used by the federal farm loan system, R. F. Loveland, secretary of the board, said. The board has just made it effective and new loans issued by the board will be in accordance with it. Mr. Loveland said. He said he expected a large number of inquiries from farmers.

Under the plan, a farmer can obtain loans at an interest rate of 5 per cent for a period of 25 years. The principal and interest is payable in 70 semi-annual payments, unless the note is matured earlier by extra payments. An amortization table is attached to the notes. The extra payments are to be made on the regular installment due dates.

PLANE "STUNTS" AND RACES THRILL AT 'MOTOR DERBY'

Wednesday Afternoon's Program to Be Repeated Sunday at Chilton

A large crowd attended the Federal Motor Derby, a series of races, held on the Calumet County fair grounds at Chilton Wednesday. All the attractions, motorcycle races, automobile and airplane stunts will be repeated on the same grounds at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Arrangements have been made by the Appleton Post-Crescent circulation department with one of the flyers to drop a number of Post-Crescent newspapers over the village of Potter, near Chilton Friday afternoon.

Three motorcycle races were held. The two-mile race was won by Lloyd Sheldon Winnipeg, Canada, the three-mile race was won by Thomas Matthews, Minneapolis, and the five-mile race by "Bill" Peterson, Minneapolis.

One of the most thrilling events of the day was the performance of Miss "Tab" Kaleshiek, aerial acrobat.

from a rope ladder suspended from an airplane and on top of one of the planes. Sunday she will undertake to stand upon the plane while the aviator makes a loop-the-loop. The parachute jump, usually done by Miss Kaleshiek, was performed by her brother, Cliff. She did not undertake it on account of a minor injury she suffered recently.

A novelty of the event was an automobile polo contest between a Wisconsin team and a Minnesota team. The former won the contest. Automobile pushball also was played, with four cars participating.

"Road Hog" Worst Menace Automobilists Encounter

Years ago, probably about 1912 or 1913 motorists had a lot of worrying to do about the roads over which they traveled. Highways were of dirt and clay, and were narrow. They were not kept up, and were not marked making it necessary for the early tourist to inquire at every cheese factory and country saloon which way to turn next to get to the desired destination.

Nowadays all this is changed. The main roads are of concrete, gravel or macadam, and are marked by the its front feet in a trough. Yes, the animal being discussed is the well known "road hog."

HE IS EVERYWHERE

On any Sunday afternoon one does not have to travel far along the country highway to see evidences of the "road hog's" trail. Cars bumped off in the ditch, and their occupants killed, or seriously injured, other cars whose fenders and running boards have been smashed, furnish abundant testimony that the man who must have all the concrete, whether it is 9 or 24 feet wide, has passed that way. The black line along the middle of most concrete roads means little or nothing to the "road hog." On a concrete highway the usual procedure of the "road hog" is to run with the left wheels of his car on or across the black division mark. Passing motorists must choose between getting hit or taking a chance of going into the ditch by running out on to the shoulders flanking the concrete.

Another little stunt of the "road hog," which helps materially to swell the auto casualty list is to take all corners by crowding in near the inner side of the curve. It makes little difference to this two-legged hog the view of the curve is obstructed by bushes or trees. He takes the inside just the same, and often collides with a car driven by a man coming around the side of the curve which is rightfully his side. On graveled roads the "road hog" always drives on the other fellows side of the road if that side happens to be a little less bumpy, and he is very reluctant to get over on his own side in passing a car piloted by a decent driver.

Among measures suggested for reducing the country of road hogs are signs for the left side of cars which would read, "Get over you road hog. Give me my half" or "Keep to the right." A more effective method it could be worked out would be to have a small cannon mounted on the left front fender of a car which could be quickly discharged at anyone attempting to keep the middle of the road for himself. Such a method would probably be the only kind which would be effective or the average "road hog," as the skulls of these creatures have to large a percentage of ivory to be penetrated by any sign warnings.
